Two Youths Killed In Car Wreck At Cornell Today

DEMOLISHED CAR in which two youths, Marvin Kinnart, 15, and Irving Godfrey, 18, received injuries which took their lives shows marks of the violent overturning and collision with another car that brought death to the boys some hours later. An older brother of each of the boys was also injured in the crash. (Daily Press Photo)

Two Others Hurt In Auto Rollover

Two youths, Marvin Kinnart, 15, of Perkins, and Irving Godfrey, 18, of Gladstone, died early this morning about four hours after they were rushed to the hospital from the scene of a violent two-car crash in Cornell.

Both boys died of injuries they received when they were thrown out of their car near the driveway of the Ed Marenger farm where they struck another vehicle after going off the road, skidding on the shoulder and overturning several times.

The accident occurred at 1:15 a. m. today.

They were the fourth highway deaths in Delta county this week. Two other youths, Tom Cannon and Donald Timler of Gladstone, met violent death early Sunday morning near Masonville.

Boys' Brothers Injured

Also in the car in which the dead boys were riding were their older brothers, both of whom were receiving treatment this morning in St. Francis Hospital.

Lyle Kinnart, 18, a serviceman, is suffering from bruises and Theodore Godfrey, 20, has a fracture of the left arm.

The Godfrey brothers are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Godfrey, 313 Wisconsin Ave., Gladstone. The two Kinnart boys are sons of Mrs. Lilage Kinnart of Perkins.

It was the fourth tragic death in the Kinnart family in the past five years. The father and two sisters of the dead boy have met accidental death by drowning, aspyxiation and scalding.

The driver of the car into which the Godfrey car crashed was Edward Carignan of Cornell, who was uninjured in the collision.

Investigating officers of the county sheriff's department reported that the Godfrey automobile, driven by Irving Godfrey, was traveling towards Escanaba on county road 426 when it left the road and continued a path on the shoulder until it skidded and rolled over an embankment. The car rolled back on the road and ran into the Carignan car. It traveled a distance of about 275 feet from the spot where it left the road and the point of impact.

Body Under Car

Marvin Kinnart's body was found under the Carignan car after the crash and Irving Godfrey was picked up in the center of the road in back of Carignan's automobile.

Post-mortem x-ray on Godfrey showed a fractured skull.

Kinnart died at approximately 4:25 this morning and Godfrey at 6 a. m.

Police reported that the two Kinnart brothers were riding in the front seat of the car, a 1941 Ford, with Irving Godfrey, the driver. Marvin was seated in the middle and Lyle Kinnart on the

Baraga School Forced To Repay State Funds

LANSING— (AP) —Dr. Lee M. Thurston, state superintendent of public instruction, disclosed today he had recovered $27,006 from the Baraga Township school district covering illegal state school aid payments over a two-year period.

Dr. Thurston said his investigators had discovered that the Upper Peninsula school district had included parochial school enrollment in its own enrollment to obtain more state aid, that enrollments in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades were counted twice —in both elementary and secondary school totals—and that the enrollments of the secondary and elementary classes were reversed to obtain a higher state aid rate.

The state school head said E. J. Martin, township superintendent, and the township school board, acknowledged the illegal payments and that he was turning the case over to the attorney general.

The disclosure resulted from a continuing survey of local school financial methods which was financed by a $25,000 grant from the legislature after enrollment padding was discovered in the Litchfield and North Adams schools a year ago.

Dr. Thurston said the illegal payments covered the fiscal years 1949-50 and 1951-52, but that school officials told his investigators that the practice of counting parochial school enrollments in public school enrollments had been going on for 30 years or more.

Dr. Thurston said the state can recover for only two years in cases of illegal payment.

He said the parochial schools whose enrollments were included were the Holy Name Orphanage and St. Joseph's school.

Invasion Threat Worries Berlin

BERLIN — (AP)—Tension mounted in divided Berlin today as West Berlin police alerted riot squads to combat a threatened invasion of Western sectors tomorrow by thousands of demonstrating Communist youth.

The planned invasion to demonstrate "for peace" was announced by the Communist press in the wake of last night's demand by Russia that the Big Three powers lift restrictions on trade between the East-West zones of Germany. The Soviets charged the trade bars violate the 1949 agreement ending the Red blockade of Berlin.

Western Allied officials in Germany will meet in Bonn next week to consider a reply to the Soviet charge.

Observers considered the Russian move significant in view of the tension in this Red-encircled city. It could foreshadow another blockade if the Soviets are looking for an excuse for such a maneuver.

Shortly after the Soviet licensed news agency reported the protest, West German official announced that East and West Germany had concluded a new trade agreement calling for the exchange of 200 million marks (47 million dollars) worth of goods to run until Dec. 31.

The Communist press has egged on the Red Free German Youth (FDJ) to rush to West Berlin tomorrow to "demonstrate we are for peace." In whipping up enthusiasm, the Communists have recaelld the bloody street fights on the boundaries a year ago in which more than 300 persons were injured.

Sponsors said the aim of the demonstration will be to show popular opposition to the West German pact with the Western Allies.

Charles Spaulding, Wealthy Negro, Dies

DURHAM, N. C. — (AP) — Charles Clinton Spaulding, one of the richest Negroes in America, died here yesterday.

One of fourteen children of a former slave, he rose to become president of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co. The firm is recognized as the world's largest all-Negro enterprise.

Spaulding was born in a poor Columbus country farm just 10 years after President Lincoln freed the slaves. He rose from his first job as a $10 a month dishwasher to become a financially prominent leader of his race in the south.

Death, which came on his 78th birthday, was caused by bronchial pneumonia.

Reds Repelled At Old Baldy

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — United Nations infantrymen on top of Old Baldy Hill last night withstood a thunderous shelling and beat back two small Chinese counterattacks.

The Communists hurled more than 3,000 rounds of artillery and mortar shells at the embattled hill west of Chorwon on the western front.

The U. S. Eighth Army said U. N. troops twice shoved back 50-man Chinese attacks. Later, a huge searchlight picked up about 53 Chinese trying to sneak through their lines. A staff officer said U. N. artillery killed 20. Machinegunners got seven more.

Old Baldy, scene of bloody, seesaw fighting for a month, was recaptured by the Allies in a 12-hour battle Friday morning. The Communists had held its crest 10 days.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, said Wednesday the hill, which overlooks both the U. N. and Red main defense lines, was important only "as a place to kill Chinese, not as terrain."

Allied infantrymen dug bunkers and entrenchments with log and sandbag support as defense against a possible Chinese counterattack in force.

Associated Press Correspondent Milo Farneti said the Reds would have trouble moving supplies toward Old Baldy. All heavy duty bridges on the Yokkok River on the Chinese side of Old Baldy had been washed away or knocked down by Allied shells.

Inland Steel And CIO Reach Accord On New Contract

CHICAGO—(AP)—Inland Steel Co. and the CIO United Steelworkers Union have signed the first complete agreement in the basic steel industry since the union ended its nation-wide strike last week.

Signing of a full agreement on a new two-year contract between the union and Inland, one of the nation's six largest steel producers, was announced yesterday.

Contracts also are being negotiated with other steel companies. In Pittsburgh, Philip Murray, union president, said he expects negotiations with U. S. Steel to produce a similar agreement "possibly by next Tuesday."

The Inland contract incorporates all terms of the interim agreement signed last week in Washington. It covers some 16,000 employes at plants in Indiana Harbor, Ind., and Chicago Heights, Ill.

The contract will remain in effect until June 30, 1954, and provides an average wage raise of 16½ cents an hour, six paid holidays a year and other benefits. Inland employes currently are paid an average hourly wage of $1.95.

A wage clause permits negotiations to be reopened after one year.

Navy Torpedo Bomber Burns

DENVER — (AP) — A single-engined Navy torpedo bomber dived in flames and crashed northeast of Denver last night after three crew-men parachuted to safety.

Reported uninjured in bailing out and landing were Lt. Robert M. Chambers, Lt. (jg) Ralph H. Daines and Lt. (jg) William D. Wordle, all 29, and all of Salt Lake City.

They were flying a routine training mission from Salt Lake City to Buckley Naval Station, just east of Denver.

The TBM, streaming a tail of fire, smashed into a summer fallowed field three and a half miles north of Derby, a Denver suburb. Wreckage was strewn over 400 yards near U. S.-6.

Lt. Chambers, the pilot, said the fliers took off from Salt Lake City at 5:45 p. m., Mountain Standard Time, and all went well for about two hours. But over Fort Collins, Colo., 60 miles north of Denver, oil started to spurt on the windshield. The engine began to run roughly and the plane to pitch. The crew notified Buckley Field a try would be made for Stapleton Municipal Airfield here.

"Just then all hell broke loose," Lt. Daines said. "The propeller began to run wild and immediately the engine broke into flames From the way it went up in flames and smoke we knew there was nothing to do but get out fast."

Lt. Chambers ordered the other two to bail out. Wordle hit the silk first, followed by Daines and finally the pilot. They landed in a corn field.

Promotions In Army Require Longer Time

WASHINGTON — (AP) —The Army has made it mighty hard for a draftee private to rise beyond buck sergeant in a normal two-year tour of duty.

Headquarters announced today that for personnel outside the Korean combat theater it is lengthening the time an individual must serve in each grade before he may be promoted.

The minimum amount of service required of a private first class before he may advance to corporal is, in effect, being tripled. And a sergeant first class now may have to remain in that grade at least six times as long as formerly required, before moving up to master sergeant.

28 Months to Sergeant

Army sources said it may take at least 28 months for the average draftee to graduate from private to sergeant, as against a possible minimum of 10 months heretofore. It would take 40 months, altogether, to go the whole way from private to master sergeant.

This represents a fairly effective barrier for the individual drafted for 24 months of service.

The reason, said the Army, is that there are not enough promotions to go around. The solution is to make the few promotions that are available harder to get.

Back of all this are budget restrictions which make it impossible for the Army to be generous in promotions—and pay raises—to officers and enlisted men.

Heretofore, the Army has required that a private remain in that grade at least four months. Promotions to other enlisted ranks could come no faster than two months apart.

Some Exceptions

The new system retains the four-month requirement for privates, but sets these new minimum "periods of service in present grade" private first class, six months; corporal, eight months; sergeant, 10 months; sergeant first class, 12 months.

In addition, it requires that the private perform the duties of private first class at least two months before advancing to that rank. For each step up in grade, an individual must have an added month of preliminary service in the higher position. Thus, the sergeant first class must have served at least six months of his 12 months or more in that grade in a master sergeant's job before he can receive the added stripe.

The Army said it is setting up a separate, more liberal promotion system for men in combat units in Korea.

Exceptions to the requirements can be made in "exceptionally meritorious individual cases," the Army added.

Under its new system, the Army will control the promotions, and distribute them fairly among the various commands. This will be done by authorizing each command on the first of each month to make a specific number of promotions among eligible personnel.

Higher Living Costs Predicted By Arnall

By DILLON GRAHAM

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Government stabilization chiefs look for the over-all cost of living to hit another new high later this month.

"The ugly picture of rising prices is plain to anyone with a desire to see it," Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall said.

His comment last night followed a Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) report that food prices have skied to a new record—up 1.2 per cent for the two week period ended July 15 and almost 16 per cent above June 1950 when the Korean fighting began. Food makes up about a third of the average urban family's budget.

Blames Republicans

Republicans were blamed by economic stabilizer Roger L. Putnam.

"There's no question that the cost of living is going to rise somewhat and that the 82nd Congress (only recently adjourned) did curb our program," Putnam said in a radio broadcast.

"There's just no question that the Republican party was voting to cripple controls. The Democrats were fighting to keep the power of controls where they're needed."

Arnall said the BLS report reveals that inflation still is a problem and that prices generally can be expected to move up.

Party Nominees Lead Campaigns

(By The Associated Press)

Gov. Adlai Stevenson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower have indicated they plan to keep a strong grip on the direction of their campaigns for the presidency.

Gov. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, disclosed yesterday his campaign headquarters will be moved from Washington to Spjringfield, Ill. He named Wilson Wyatt of Louisville, Ky., as his personal campaign manager.

Gen. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, told reporters at Denver that "There can be no boss of this campaign" other than Eisenhower himself. He said the advice of political advisers will get top consideration but the final responsibility is his.

McKinney to Quit

Wyatt said all elements of the campaign "will be coordinated with Governor Stevenson." He explained that this doesn't mean the Democratic national committee will play a lesser role in the campaign. "It will be a different one," he said.

Frank E. McKinney told reporters in Kansas City he did not care to remain as Democratic national committee chairman. He said he would discuss party affairs with Gov. Stevenson in about a week. The presidential nominee traditionally chooses the man he wants for this post.

Drought Causes Heavy Damages

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Agriculture Department officials today termed the drought in the South and New England one of the most serious economic disasters in the nation's history.

Department officials explored new steps to alleviate the plight of farmers and to save livestock herds.

The states of South Carolina, Massachusetts and Maine and nine more counties in Arkansas were added yesterday to the department's growing list of drought disaster areas.

The disaster area designation, which qualifies farmers for federal loans where local credit is unavailable, now applies to eight full states and large areas of Arkansas and Missouri. The other states are Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Assistant secretary of agriculture Knox Hutchinson pledged the full support of the federal government to the drought-stricken region at an emergency nine-state meeting in Nashville, Tenn., yesterday. Emergency action discussed at the meeting will be considered further in Washington.

Raub Snyder, assistant production and marketing administrator, told the meeting the railroads are expected to announce next week an emergency reduction in rates for hauling hay into the south where pastures have been burned up by the sun. Livestock feeding is a major problem.

The Tennessee Agriculture Commissioner already was in Wisconsin buying hay for shipment to his state. The first carload left Madison last night for Nashville and nine more carloads are expected to follow.

Thus far, the federal government has made no outright grants of financial aid. The disaster loans for the purchase of livestock feed and for planting of new crops and the like must me repaid by the farmers in one to five years with 3 per cent interest.

Hutchinson said the intensity of drought regions is a major blow to the nation's total crop production.

"The outlook in the area for the next 12 months is very, very distressing," he said.

New Railroad Strike Brewing

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A strike vote authorizing a Sunday morning walkout of all operating employes on the New York Central Railroad lines east of Buffalo was reported here last night.

J. P. Shields, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, confirmed from Cleveland that he was notified of the scheduled walkout in a telegram from local union leaders in New York. He told a reporter he is against a strike on such short notice.

In Syracuse, N. Y., a spokesman for one railroad brotherhood, who asked that his name not be used, said the strike tentatively scheduled for Sunday would be postponed 72 hours, unitl Wednesday morning. This, he said, would be done as a courtesy to the National Mediation Board since its offices are closed for the weekend.

Shields said national heads of three other big operating unions, the Trainmen, Firemen and Conductors, have received similar notices of the scheduled walkout. He said they will meet with him today and probably agree to try to delay the strike.

The strike threat, Shields said, stems from grievances over local working rules dating from 1950. A brief walkout last March shut down New York Central lines west of Buffalo.

The railroad's chief dispatcher in Buffalo said he had heard nothing of a strike threat. No strike notices had been posted last night at any of the New York Central yards in New York City.

Montreal Jail Convicts Riot

MONTREAL—(AP)—Hundreds of rioting prisoners roamed the yard and some cellblocks of Montreal's Bordeaux jail today after a pitched battle with 200 heavily-armed police.

At least one convict was reported killed and a dozen others injured in the fighting last night which flared after the prisoners began a wild demonstration against the quality of food served in the jail.

The riot, third in the prison in three months, quieted early this morning but the defiant prisoners still held one wing of the institution.

Police Remain Silent

Police officials refused to give any official information. They declined to confirm or deny reports that two of the convicts had been shot, one fatally. Newsmen were kept outside the main gate, several hundred yards from the principal prison buildings.

Jail sources said, however, that the trouble began when one prisoner pretended to be stricken ill in his cell. He called a guard, overpowered him and used his keys to free other convicts from their cells.

Gathering in the prison yard, the convicts began their demonstration. Violence flared when police, using tear gas, forced them from the yard into a cell block.

The prisoners already had set 17 fires in cell blocks and workshops and smashed the main telephone switchboard, cutting communications within the prison.

Smash Plumbing

Herded into the cell block, they barricaded all entrances and then broke into the prison canteen, which was housed in that wing. Plumbing was smashed and water sloshed through the corridors and down stairways.

The prisoners later pushed back into the big yard of the jail, in Montreal's northern outskirts. The police did not interfere and some 200 convicts bedded down under blankets in the yard. Others roamed about the prison.

Jack Green Explains Political Conventions

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING—, Mich— (AP) —So you were shocked, amazed, disgusted or puzzled by the Republican and Democratic national conventions on TV? Well, what did you think conventions were like, anyway?

Veteran conventioneers, on the contrary, are somewhat puzzled that the folks back home built up such violent reactions to the two big conventions.

That's the way conventions always have been. Television made a few changes, but no basic ones. Fundamentally, the conventions were just as they always have been and just like the smaller scale state political conventions.

Party Conventions

But the people, who have apparently been accepting the convention system along with the air they breathe for many years, suddenly are sputtering that "This is a fine way to run things!"

So let's take a look at some of the criticisms.

In the first place, the folks say this is an undemocratic method of selecting a President of the United States, that it's not representative of the popular will.

They forget that these are party conventions, with the accent on "party." With your TV or radio set you were permitted to sit in on a semi-private meeting of party representatives from all over the country. It's just the same as if you watched a Rotarian, or Steamfitters convention.

These were assemblies of party people selecting candidates and determining policy for the ticket they plan to submit to you as voters next fall. If you are an active party worker they were representing you; if you are just an average citizen paying scant heed to political matters, they weren't representing you at all—and didn't intend to.

The folks object that the speeches were too long, that the delegates were impolite and didn't listen carefully, that the newspaper men wandered around and ignored the speakers.

Speeches Too Long

Well, political speeches are always too long. The delegates, being party workers, have heard them all a hundred times before The newspapermen have heard them a thousand times before. Both the delegates and press men and dignitaries knew that the speeches don't mean anything. They're just opportunities for some big wig to get himself in the limelight and collect some small reward for his long years of "service."

Did you listen all the way, intently, to the keynote address of Gov. Devers of Massachusetts? Then why blame the delegates?

Did you ever stumble out of bed, grab a hasty breakfast at a drug store counter, pack yourself in a steaming bus and ride five miles in 96-degree heat, be stepped on

On the Democratic ticket there is keen interest in the nomination contest between Atty. Clyde McGonagle, incumbent, and Atty. Nicholas P. Chapekis for prosecuting attorney.

The Republican ticket lists an Escanaban, Atty. John G. Erickson, in a nomiantion race for congressman. He is one of six candidates.

The Republicans also have a slip candidate for sheriff, Clifford W. Sutter of Gladstone. If Sutter receives sufficient support he will be nominated and his name will go on the Republican ballot for the November general election.

In the primary election voters may not split their ticket.

Barber Shoppers At Washington Island

Escanaba barber shop singers are enroute to Washington Island this afternoon for a weekend of harmony sponsored by the islander's Lions club.

The 38-voice group will present a two hour show tonight, and will entertain Sunday morning at a joint Lions-barbershoppers breakfast at the Holiday Inn. After a noonday sight-seeing trip around the island they will return to Escanaba. The group has chartered the ferry Namacush for the occasion.

Tonight's affair promises to be a gala one. Barber shop groups from the Sturgeon Bay area will take part in the show, as well as the Bay de Noc chorus, Four Tissimos quartet, Johnson Boys octet, and Wallace Cameron as emcee, all of the Escanaba chapter. A public dance will follow the show.

The singing group was scheduled to leave at 2 p. m. today from the municipal dock.

Kissing A National Habit In Ethiopia

CAIRO —(AP)— Ethiopians are the world's greatest kissers. This is the conclusion of an observer who recently visited Ethiopia.

Men and women, meeting on the streets, kiss one another three times on the right and left cheeks. There is much mouth kissing, too.

Kissing of walls around churches, and even the pavement and ground in front of churches, is widely practiced. Foreign doctors frown on these common kissing habits, warning that they can further spread syphilis, which already is widespread in Ethiopia.

Forgotten War In Korea Has Touched Many Lives

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Korean war is well into its third year and the millionth draftee is now in service.

Month by month this faraway conflict has touched more and more lives, affected more and more American families. It has cost more than 113,000 casualties. It has been raised as a major political issue.

Yet it remains "the forgotten war," the war that almost no one knows except the men who fight it. It is as if Korea were upon another planet, or as if there were a conspiracy of silence against it—"if we don't mention the war, it will just go away."

Morale Has Improved

Unfortunately, it is a war that won't go away, and America may still have men stationed on a battlefront in Korea after it inducts its second millionth draftee.

The odd thing about the Korean combat picture is that the morale of the American fighting man has picked up, while interest at home has steadily waned.

"Why are we in Korea at all?" Ask the average man in the street that question, and he might be hard put for an answer.

But the American soldier in Korea now has a pretty good idea why he is there.

Take Pfc George Whitenour, for example. He is a member of the St. Barnabas Lutheran Church in Queens. So is John R. Crooks, a veteran newspaper librarian.

Gossipy News Sheet

Some time ago Crooks, who is 63, decided to put out a one-man newspaper for the members of the church who are in the armed service. His gossipy news sheet now circulates to 70 young soldiers, sailors and airmen, scattered around the world. It knits them to their old home neighborhood.

Recently, Pfc. Whitenor wrote a letter of gratitude from Korea, and this is what he said:

"We have church services over here in our mess tent, and they sure give a lift to the boys' morale. But I miss St. Barnabas; it is a beautiful church.

"As yet I am not really hunting the Reds too much. I'm glad that I don't have to use a weapon against anyone. And I'm sorry that the other boys have to.

"But if the war isn't fought here it might have to be fought back in the states.

"The Korean people are not really as bad as some people would lead you to believe. Some of these people were just content to live their own lives, tending to their gardens, building homes and leading an ordinary life. But some of the big wise guys had to think they could rule them and buck their strength against the good people of the world.

"When you see all the nations that are represented here you feel that we can't lose. Scattered throughout this area are Turks, Ethiopians, Filipinos, Puerto Ricans, Canadians, Scotch, English, Australians, Hollanders, Hawaiians and others—all fighting on as one big team.

"How can we lose? Besides, we have the help of God. If we stay together as free nations after this is over, we can hope for peace for all time."

Masked Burglars Terrorize Couple And Steal $2,000

DETROIT—(AP)— Two masked, armed burglars terrorized a couple for two hours in their home early today and stole $2,000.

The victims were Samuel Barek, 57, real estate man, and his wife, Bessie, 52.

The burglars, entering through a basement window about 2:30 a. m., forced Barek to aid them while the home was ransacked.

As one of the two forced Barek to lead him about the house, the other stood guard over Mrs. Barek.

The couple had been ordered out of bed and Mrs. Barek was bound with one of her husband's shirts and other clothing.

"One of the men stood behind me and held something against my back," Mrs. Barek told police. "He told me if I turned around and tried to look at him, he would kill me."

AT REESE AFB—Staff Sergeant Matt Malnor, who spent a 17-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Malnor of Ensign and with relatives and friends in Ashland, Wis., and Chicago, has returned to Reese Air Force Base, Texas.

Jacob Franzen, 92, Is Taken By Death

Horse Pulling Is Fair Feature

Horse pulling competition, always a popular feature at the Upper Peninsula State Fair, will be held Friday, Aug. 22 and Saturday, Aug. 23 at the 1952 U. P. State Fair.

The lightweight teams will be in action Friday afternoon and the heavyweights will compete on Saturday.

Many of the world's finest teams will compete at the Upper Peninsula State Fair. Last year a team owned by Charles Roehl and Son, Smith Creek, Michigan, established a new world's record in the lightweight division by pulling a 3575 pound load the required distance of 27½ feet.

Lightweight teams weight less than 3000 pounds and the heavyweights are teams more than 3000 pounds. A tractive dynamometer is used to conduct the contest.

No entry fee is assessed entries made on or before Aug. 10. A fee of $3 per team is charged late entries.

Hundreds of dollars are offered in premiums to the owners of winning teams, 12 places in the open class and seven places in the Upper Peninsula Special. Special awards are paid to winners whose teams travel distances of 300 miles or more to the Escanaba fairgrounds. Additional cash prizes also are paid for setting a new Upper Peninsula team record, new U. P. State Fair team record or world's record.

Whipping is forbidden in the pulling contests and drivers must ride on and drive from the seat of the tractive dynamometer.

A green forest is a growing forest—a natural home for beauty, wildlife, recreation and contentment. Prevent forest fires.

Tuesday Is Primary Election Day; Be Sure That You Vote

TUESDAY is primary election day in Michigan. For some reason many people—far too many—believe that primary elections are not important so they pass up their voting privilege in the primaries and wait for the general election. Actually, the primary election is at least as important in many ways at the general election because only those candidates who win nomination at the primaries will be in contention for the general election.

A lot of very important and interesting nomination contests are shaping up in Tuesday's primary election in Michigan, local contests as well as contests for state and national offices.

It is difficult to imagine voters passing up their right and privilege to cast their ballot in any election and particularly in a selection as important as this one. And yet gloomy forecasts of a light vote are heard throughout the state.

No matter what appointment you may have for Tuesday, do not let it interfere with your voting duty. Be sure to vote, preferably early if you can. But no matter what time is most convenient for you to get to the polls, make sure you cast your ballot.

It is strange that we in America take our voting privilege so lightly when we see what has happened in other lands where dictatorships have been established, where individual rights and privileges have been lost. We have a secret ballot, an honest count and a political system without recriminations. We respect the right of every individual to his own opinion. And yet it is necessary in every election to coax, beg and implore the voters to do their duty and exercise the cherished right of franchise.

Be sure to vote Tuesday.

Action On Alcoholism Is Essential Step

AMERICANS as a nation are a pretty hard-drinking crew, and as such inevitably carry things too far sometimes.

In fact, the problem of alcoholism, when recognized for the extensive national ill that it is, becomes disturbingly serious. There are few of us who, right in our own lives, have not been touched at some time by the effects of too much drinking.

It can be a brother-in-law, a father, a cousin, a good friend. It can even be a sister or a mother. Tippling unfortunately is not confined to men.

Happily, the extent and nature of the problem have been recognized by our top medical men and by the government. It's pretty well understood now that alcoholism is a disease with mysterious and hidden roots, and it is being attacked as such.

One of the leaders in research on the subject is the Yale University Center of Alcohol Studies. Numerous other schools have similar programs.

On the non-scientific side is Alcoholics Anonymous. In that nation-wide organization former alcoholics have done wonderful work in helping others to get back on the right track.

Drugs have been developed such as antabuse, which makes a person sick if he drinks alcohol.

For some years business and industry have been aware that alcoholism is one of the greatest destroyers of personal efficiency.

It has been estimated that alcoholism among employes costs the nation's industry $1 million a year. That includes absenteeism, accidents, errors, inefficiency and poor public relations.

In New York City certain industries have gotten together to see what can be done about the matter. First they attended a conference sponsored by the new Consultation Clinic for Alcoholism at New York University-Bellevue Medical Center.

There, the industrial representatives heard explanations from experts of the whole problem facing industry. Then they were invited to send to the clinic for treatment those of their employes who needed it.

Aunt Sally Peters has been after the butcher again because of high meat prices. When she paid $3.76 for some veal, Aunt Sally snorted she used to buy a whole calf for that much.

John Erickson An Escanaba Candidate

ESCANABA and Delta County voters who will be voting the Republican ticket in Tuesday's primary election will have an opportunity to support an Escanaba candidate for Congress.

John G. Erickson, Escanaba attorney, is one of seven candidates in the field for the Republican nomination for Congress, 11th district. It is a large district, embracing the eastern section of the Upper Peninsula and a number of counties in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula.

The importance to Delta County people of having an Escanaba man in Congress was evidenced during the congressional regime of the late John Luecke. It is an honor, as well as a great convenience to the residents of a county, to have the services of a neighbor available to them in Congress.

John Erickson possesses many admirable qualities needed in our Congressmen. As a practicing attorney, he understands the legal techniques of government. More important, he believes in American principles of democracy, of justice, of honesty and of patriotism.

BETTER DAYS AHEAD
(Iron Mountain News)

They didn't miss a trick.

Members of the Michigan Economic Development Commission and its U. P. Advisory Committee, aided and abetted by the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Area Industrial Development Committee and other agencies, went over this community and district with a fine-tooth comb here Sunday and Monday, and out of the long-drawn discussions there evolved a pattern of better days ahead for this region north of the Straits.

It was a searching alalysis not only of the Peninsula's resources in material and manpower, but its defects and shortcomings as well. It was, in fact, a play-by-play account of what it takes to transform the economy of a region which is slowly and painfully emerging from the fixed pattern of mining and lumbering to the more exciting adventure of processing and manufacturing. And in this transition, the Upper Peninsula of Michigan—it became apparent as the discussion went on—is still in swaddling clothes.

When the air had finally cleared of facts and figures which showered in rich abundance over the conferees during the two-day meeting, at least one heartening conclusion could be drawn: Business and industrial leaders of the Lower Peninsula are willing not only to lend their time and talent to solution of upper Michigan's problems, but their dollars as well. And that indication—so evident during all of the discussion—should definitely and finally dispel the old-wives' tale about Michigan's "country cousin north of the Straits."

Four cartons of shoes stolen by an Illinois man were all for the right foot—enough to make him hopping mad.

Did Samuel Succeed, or Fail?

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

The story of Samuel, in the two great Books of the Old Testament that bear his name, presents, as I have suggested, some striking contrasts and interesting questions. And an outstanding question at the end of the story is whether Samuel succeeded, or failed.

That he succeeded, in so far as his personal life and integrity are concerned, seems clear. No stain is upon his acts or motives. Even in that blood-stained scene in which he hewed Agag in pieces before the altar (I Samuel 15:32), it was the execution of a perpetrator of atrocities, and it reveals the seemingly gentle Samuel in the character of a strong realist, scorning to put upon a subordinate the act of retribution that he deemed necessary. He made the bloody act an act of religion, and it will always be a question whether religion should be associated with violence. But are not modern executions by hanging, or firing squad, also marked by the attendance of chaplains, or confessors?

It seems clear, also, that Samuel restored a large measure of integrity to the religious life of Israel. The Ark of the Covenant was restored, when its enemies found it too dangerous to keep (I Samuel 5), and its restoration became again a symbol of a restoration of religious integrity. Samuel's leadership, for the time at least, seemed constructively sure and effective. Wherein, then, if he failed at all, did Samuel fail?

He failed, sad to say, in his sons, just as Eli had failed. There lacks evidence that the sons of Samuel were as degraded and licentious as the sons of Eli but the evidence is clear (I Samuel 8:1-3) that they did not honor their father by walking in his ways, and they took bribes and perverted justice. That was failure enough.

It is evident that trouble began in that day when Israel rejected Samuel, the trouble that issued in the tragic death of King Saul upon the battlefield, and another crucial defeat for Israel (I Samuel 31).

The narrative itself is confusing. Samuel acclaims Saul as the choice of the people and the divinely annointed king, but in strangely contrasting words (I Samuel 8:10-18), he gives a dark and depressing picture of what is in store for the people in their turning from him, and impliedly from God, to their trust in a king. Once it was clear that the people were determined to have a king, did Samuel change his own attitude, and seek to surround the new monarchy with all the sanctions of religion? I cannot resolve the discrepancy, but the whole passages and incidents have very interesting bearing on the question of the divine right of kings.

A great philosopher when he was asked to appraise the character and career of a certain man, replied, and declined, saying, "I do not know his end." It was a wise judgment, and concerning Samuel it may be said at least his end showed a diminishing greatness, perhaps partly due to old age. It is in his whole career, with the full strength of his manhood and leadership in mind that he may best be remembered. He never failed in his integrity as judge and prophet, though he failed to achieve all that he had sought to do as a true patriot in Israel.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—During the early days of the long-drawn-out steel strike negotiations, Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg was urging that the crisis be solved by giving the steel industry a price increase. She wanted to know why this wasn't practicable.

"You can increase prices all right," replied Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall. "You can increase 'em if you want to wreck the country.

"Yes, you can increase 'em all right," he added very softly, "but you'll have to get yourself a new price administrator."

Last week steel prices were increased as a "bribe" to the steel industry, and, as a result, Mr. Truman is going to have to get himself a new price administrator.

Arnall will carry out his threat without any shouting or bombast—in fact, just as softly as he gave his reply to Assistant Secretary Rosenberg. He doesn't blame the President for caving in to the steel companies in view of the desperate arms situation, and he doesn't want to embarrass anyone. Nevertheless, Arnall has concluded that you can't control prices, if you yield every time you get in a tight corner.

"Under the present law there are just two things left for the price administrator to do," Arnall told a friend recently. "If the price is too low he can remove a commodity from price control, or if the price is too high, he can cave in."

Arnall is tired of caving in as a result of pressure from above, so about the end of the summer he will unobtrusively go back to Georgia.

TRUMAN'S SENATE OPPONENT

It looks as if President Truman might repeat his propensity for picking the wrong candidate in Missouri. So far he hasn't picked a winner.

First he bet his money against Congressman Roger Slaughter of Kansas City and lost. Later he bet against ex-Congressman Tom Hennings for the Senate and lost.

Now he is betting against his old assistant, Stuart Symington, who is running in the Missouri primary against the President's choice, State Attorney General J. E. Taylor.

A lot of people have been puzzled regarding Truman's opposition to Symington, a man who worked long and loyally for the administration, first as secretary for air, later as chairman of the National Security Resources Board, finally as head of the RFC.

Symington's difficulties with the White House date back to the days when he brought Charles E. Wilson into the administration as defense mobilizer. Symington had suggested Wilson for the job, and went up to New York to urge him to take it. Wilson, he planned, would be an independent operator, and he, Symington, would continue with his vitally important chairmanship of the National Security Resources Board.

However, it turned out just the other way. Symington found himself working under Wilson, the man he appointed. Wilson got the White House to issue an executive order making Symington his subordinate.

The President probably didn't realize that he had undercut his own man. The deal was put across by subordinates. Anyway, he later shifted Symington over to clean up the RFC scandals and this was where Symington made his political error.

e let the chips fall where they may. When the Senate wanted information on such sensitive matters as Donald Dawson, a former RFC official now working at the White House; and on the President's private stenographer, Mrs. Merl Young of mink-coat fame, Symington released the true facts. It was then that White House aides began gunning for him.

It's difficult for any President not to be influenced by the palace guard, and Truman undoubtedly was affected by the constant anti-Symington pin-pricking of the Dawsons, the Connellys, and the Vaughans.

It will be interesting to see what happens if and when Symington comes back to Washington next fall as a full-fledged senator from Missouri.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE

The person who has more influence on Harry Truman than anyone else, told him just before the convention that she would not be too much opposed if he ran again. Hitherto Bess Truman had been one of the chief reasons why HST hadn't wanted to run. Another was daughter Margaret. . . Mrs. India Edwards, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, received an offer from the Eisenhower camp to come over to the Republicans. She declined. She wasn't interested personally, and besides, the Republicans didn't even give the ladies a nominating speech for the vice presidency, whereas the girls had quite a fling at the Democratic convention.

Wonder-World Of Motion, Color Is Revealed At Bottom Of Ocean

By JIM THOMAS
AP Newsfeatures

SAN FRANCISCO—I found a bright and fascinating world in the ocean.

It was a world of vivid color, fantastic shapes and constant motion—a world more remindful of some wild setting for a stellar-space movie than of the familiar solid earth.

I had gone to Santa Barbara for a week-end visit to the California Fish and Game Department abalone research project. I was togged out in a rubber suit, with 100 pounds or so of lead hung on me, and in an iron hat went prowling around with the fish and seaweed.

Pressure Troublesome

My first surprise was that when I started down I began to feel the effects of the water pressure. Hardly was my helmet under the surface when the water began squeezing air out the safety valve and the heavy rubber suit clung to me like underwear.

About 15 feet down, I got the first real jolt when the pressure hit my ears. It was like all the devils in the world poking pins in my ear drums. I yelled on the inter-com - which connects the helmet with the crew above—for Glenn Bickford, tending the lines, to pull me up a bit. I got my ears adjusted and went on down. Finally, I was on the bottom.

The solid, gently sloping sand was gone—replaced by a moving semi-fluid cushion which seemed to float away as you stepped through it to the hardness beneath. I was in a world of constant movement, of vivid spectral color and of huge, unearthly shapes. I quickly learned that there is no real quiet in the ocean. And no matter how gentle it may seem, that movement is accompanied by irresistable force. I started to climb over a house-sized boulder. Just as I reached the top, the gently swaying current changed and gently but irresistably lifted me off my rock and floated me back to the bottom.

Float Gently Down

But with all the motion, and the weird surprising shapes, still it was the color which was most impressive and unearthly. The prismatic effect of the sun rays cutting through the water gave everything a luminous and vivid glow. Seaweed, a rope - like, stringy, dull brown stuff on the surface, took on rich and varying shapes of green and purplish brown as the great strands constantly writhed and twisted in seemingly tortured movement. Great feathery ropes, apparently swinging out of nowhere, shed a pale green cast over the deeper chasms.

At 40 feet down, the weight of the 25-pound lead sandals and the 70 pounds of weights laced to the breastplate were gone, nullified by the pressure. To enter a chasm you simply stepped into watery space and floated gently down.

Starfish, which we know on the beaches as fairly dull looking creatures with half a dozen legs, took on seemingly limitless form and size and almost every color of the rainbow.

Then, of course, there were fish. As I entered the deeper chasms they stared at me in seeming wonder and then moved unconcernedly away. Rich copper-red Garibaldi, big striped Sheepshead with cotton - white mouths, purple kelp bass, and scores of others I didn't know and couldn't afterwards describe were everywhere.

So engrossed in my wonderings and the strange things beneath the surface, I even forgot to look for abalone.

Finally it was time to come up.

The next day I dived again. Ignoring the wonderful moving weeds and the gaudy fish, I looked for abalone and actually found a few. I found out, too, what happens when an abalone gatherer carelessly tosses the undersize ones back into the water. It's simple. Automatically, he's a dead abalone.

For abalone, I find, are as prized by fish as they are by humans. And an abalone flipped out into the water automatically settles on his back, a helpless prey for ocean predators. I tossed one out a number of times, and after watching his futile efforts to turn over stepped back to see what would happen. In seconds the fish began to gather and swooped down like dive bombers to tear the meat from the helpless mollusc. He didn't have a chance, and the abalone men tell me that's the end of practically all tossed out in the water.

Then it was time to come up again. I wanted to hunt more, but the crew thought I had enough, so up I came. With Tom Reviea, research crew captain, in charge of the diving boat, Glenn handling the air-hose and life line, and Pinky Thomas at the controls, I had working for me that day as good a diving boat crew as is on the Pacific coast, and it was their expert work which permitted me to prowl here and there without direction and without getting fouled up. They knew what to do even if I did not.

But in two short dives I learned a little more about the abalone, where they live and why the state is spending, and must spend, thousands of dollars to find out how and why they live and breed as they do and the ecology of their world.

It is a big job which may result in saving a unique and valuable resource which abides in a wonderful, fantastic world just off our beaches.

God's Living Letters

By Kirby Page

He lived for eighty-five eventful years. It was said of him that "he was of the tradition of Isaiah and Amos and Micah," and his resemblance to Abraham Lincoln was often pointed out.

Louis Dembitz Brandeis was born in 1856 in Louisville, Kentucky, of Jewish immigrants from Bohemia. At the age of twenty-one, he received the degree Bachelor of Law from Harvard University. He then began a distinguished career as "the people's attorney." His legal practice was so successful and his family life so simple that he was able to offer his services without payment in many celebrated cases involving the public interest. He was counsel for the state to prove constitutional the women's ten-hour laws in Oregon and Illinois, the California eight-hour law, the Ohio nine-hour law, the Oregon minimum wage law, and many other cases involving social legislation.

He was an advocate of controlled capitalism. Throughout his career he opposed the trend toward monopoly. His mastery of the facts of American economic life was not exceeded by any other legal mind in the country. No eminent jurist ever recognized more thoroughly the intimate and intricate relationships of economics to politics. His life struggle was to help achieve economic freedom for the common people of this nation.

President Wilson in 1916 appointed Louis D. Brandeis to the Supreme Court of the United States. For twenty-five years on that body his opinions and decisions helped to create legal history. At the end he had achieved a place as one of a half-dozen greatest members of the Supreme Court in a century and a half. But the fact should be remembered that a storm of abuse and opposition broke about President Wilson when he submitted the name of Brandeis for this high responsibility. For three months the Judiciary Committee listened to a steady stream of attacks upon the nominee. He was then confirmed and took his place on the Court as one of its most illustrious members.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

JUST HANGING ON—The cost of living has hit a new all-time high. You can make a note of this if you have not already noticed it, which is unlikely.

Food costs are now two per cent higher than a year ago and 14 per cent above the figure of two years ago.

Other items, including rents, and some miscellaneous goods and services, went up to help establish the new sky-rocket boom in the cost of living.

Statistics are so interesting.

We have just proved (with the help of Bureau of Labor Statistics figures) that you are paying more for what you need to continue living.

But statistics cannot tell the whole story of the way the HCL bites into the income of the average wage earner—and by average I mean the chap whose take-home-pay averages around $3,000 to $4,000 per year.

* * *

HAMBURGER FOR TWO—There is no tear in my eye for the chap who can afford to live in a big house, spend a lot of money for drinks and entertainment, drive a super-duper straight-eight and eat two-inch steaks at midnight.

Perhaps I should feel for him, since he too must be making sacrifices—considering his standard of living. But I'm saving my charity for the guy who has a big family, no house of his own, and a wife whose hair is turning gray from trying to do the impossible—make both ends of her husband's pay check meet both ends of the family living costs.

Their's is a hamburger-for-two ration stretched to feed six. The last time they saw a sizzling steak was during the World War II meat shortage, and they haven't dined out since the office party.

* * *

WHEREVER YOU TURN—By being careful the low-income family will manage to get by.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics lumps under miscellaneous such highly necessary services as doctor' fees, hospital rates tranportation and laundry service. All of these have shown a big jump in cost, the Bureau reports.

So if the low-income family has a bad break and several members of the family are ill or in need of surgery, the cost can be a financial burden extending unto the next generation.

Of course, the family may be protected by one of those handy hospital and medical insurance policies. But they are not the complete answer to a family health protection problem, as those who have such policies well know. There are always costs above and beyond the coverage stipulated.

* * *

POOR MAN'S ANSWER—The average American is making more (and spending more) than at any time in the nation's history.

Personal income last year was 12 per cent more than in 1950, and personal savings were $17 billion last year, as compared to $11.2 billion in 1950 and $6.7 billion in 1949.

This presents a rosy surface picture, but beneath it is turbulent budget troubles for the low-income group. He is making more and he is spending more—but he is unable to save any part of that $17 billion the Bureau prates about.

If he attempted to save anything from his meager salary the kids would have to go hungry.

* * *

ONLY ONE WAY—Personal prosperity is the difference between income and outgo—savings.

To accomplish savings the low-income family must reduce its standard of living. Encouraged to dip deeper into credit buying, income is pledged for a couple years ahead, and savings are impossible.

But don't blame the situation to the capitalistic system. Corporations also earned more ($42.9 billion last year compared to $27.1 billion in 1949) and got a royal tax switching from the government.

After taxes, corporate profits last year were $18.7 billion, compared to $16.3 billion in 1949.

The government also dipped into the family income. Government expenditures were $62.5 billion in 1950. They were $42.1 billion in 1949.

QUESTIONS THE READERS ASK

Anderson, S. C.—"Which is correct, 'You had better go,' or you would better go'?"—Mrs. V. W. C.

Answer.—Either construction is accepted, but "had better," a long established idiom, is preferred. Some authorities argue that "had better" expresses the idea of choice, that is, in "You had better go," the thought is, "It would be better for you to go", but in "You would better go," a sense of obligation is conveyed, that is, "It is your duty to go."

* * *

Ogden, Utah.—"What is the pronunciation of the surname Hough?"—S. V.

Answer.—The majority of those with that name pronounce it as if spelled "huff," but others, notably Lynn Harold Hough, prefer "hawff." As a safeguard, it is better to ask one with that name for his own preference.

* * *

Reno, Nev.—"Can you tell me the origin and meaning of the phrase, 'The Greeks hda a word for it'?"—G. G.

Answer.—Although the expression is often quoted as you give it, the phrase should be, "The Greeks had a name for them." I have been unable to find the source of the expression, but I believe that it is modern and that it has no other significance than that the Greeks called their courtesans hetaerae, (he-TEER-ee), plural of hetaera.

* * *

Jackson, Mich.—"Please explain the difference between to microphotograph and a photomicrograph."—D. K. W.

Answer. — A microphotograph, as the term is used today, is a photograph of such reduced size that a microscope or magnifying glass must be used to bring out its details. A photomicrograph is a photograph of an object as seen through a microscope, that is, with all detail greatly enlarged.

Zoo Receives Rare Rattlers

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A pair of the rarest rattlesnakes on earth have arrived safely at the Washington Zoo.

The collector was Lewis Wayne Walker, a young ex-Marine assisted by the National Geographic Society on a mission that took several years to complete. He suffered a shipwreck, an automobile accident and considerable hardships during the search period.

Last month he packed his snakes the larger one nearly two feet long, in a strong carton and shipped them to Dr. William M. Mann, director of the Smithsonian Institution's National Zoological Park.

Dr. Mann received them in good condition, jubilantly identified them scientifically as Crotalus Tortugensis, and installed them in his Reptile House. Although he is one of the world's foremost authorities on wild creatures, Dr. Mann had never before seen similar rattlers.

The Zoo's new snakes are one of nearly thirty varieties of rattlesnakes. All are members of the highly poisonous pit viper family.

This (Newport, Ark.,) happens to be the first whistle stop of 1952. There are going to be a lot more of them.—President Truman

Summer Dream

By Irene Ernhart

Copyright 1952 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Laurie French, engaged to be married in October, is spending the summer in diana with her father. A young school teacher, Steve Wysong, takes her to a dance and later tells Laurie she came to Indiana to run away. He kisses Laurie, who returns the kiss.

LAURIE FRENCH stirred her coffee and didn't look at Steve. "Blame the kiss on the moon," he went on. "Besides, you looked lovely last night. But it won't happen again."

Another long pause. Laurie said, "Didn't you like to kiss me?"

"Good heavens, Laurie, that's a silly thing to ask. Of course I did." He rose from the table abruptly and put the coffee pot back on the stove. He returned. "But you just don't go around kissing girls who are engaged to somebody else."

"Oh, Steve," she whispered. "I liked it too."

Steve gulped some coffee. After a moment he said. "Sure. You're lonesome and away from the man you love. It was really Fletcher Sturdevant you kissed last night. Not me."

He rose from the table abruptly, scraping his chair back. "I'm awfully sorry, Laurie, to have to hurry off, but I promised Evelyn last night that I'd drive her and Johnny up to Capitol City to the Clinic. Johnny's under treatment there, and the second Sunday in the month he goes into the hospital. Evelyn doesn't have a car of her own."

"You'll be gone all day?" She couldn't disguise her disappointment.

"Probably be back around supper time."

"Could we go for a swim then? There'll still be a full moon."

"Maybe."

"Please."

He shrugged. "If you'll excuse me now, I've got to shave." He glanced at his watch. "Go ahead and finish your breakfast." He went off into the back wing of the cabin and presently she heard the sound of the shower running.

Laurie got up from the table and went out, closing the screen softly behind her.

Last night, she thought as she went back up the path, Steve had told her in effect that she was not sure she was in love with Fletcher, and he had kissed her. This morning he seemed to take it for granted that she was in love with Fletcher. And he was sorry for last night's kiss. Why? Was it because of Evelyn Crane?

Her day stretched ahead somber and empty. She helped her father in his garden for a while and then in the afternoon curled up in the shade to read a book Steve had lent her. The book was boring, for some reason or another and after supper she decided to return it.

It was as good an excuse as any to see whether or not Steve had returned from Capitol City.

He wasn't home yet, but the house was never locked and Laurie went in, because she knew he wouldn't mind her picking out another book. She browsed through the volumes on his desk, picked out a likely one and sat down on the davenport to skim through it. Steve would probably be home shortly. The book was rather interesting, so she turned on the radio and settled herself to read.

• • •

The next thing she knew someone was shaking her awake, and she heard Steve's angry voice saying, "Laurie, what are you doing here at this time of the night?"

She sat up, blinking. "Is it late? I must have dozed off." The radio was still bleating.

"It's 2 o'clock in the morning."

Laurie yawned. "Fine time for you to be coming home, especially when you knew we were going swimming." She tried to collect her sleep-drenched thoughts.

Steve pulled her to her feet.

"What's the rush and why are you so mad about it? After all, I didn't mean to fall asleep."

"Suppose Mrs. Jenner should see me bringing you home at this time. She knew you were coming down here, I presume?"

Laurie nodded as she stood up, still yawning. "Don't be mad at me, Steve," she whispered. She felt all warm and sleepy and quite reckless, and suddenly she reached out her arms and put them around his neck and lifted her lips to his.

Steve tried to push her away but then all at once he pulled her against him and kissed her. She was trembling when he let her go.

"Come along. I'll take you home." He was standing at the screen door, opening it. His voice was brusque and impersonal.

She almost had to run to keep up with him as he strode up the path.

* * *

He stopped and waited for her to catch up. "You little nitwit," he said hoarsely, "you're a spoiled brat that's always had her own way about everything and thinks she can have just anything she takes a fancy to. Why don't you stop fooling around here and go back to New York and get married? At least go back to your own kind."

Laurie couldn't think of anything to say, so she followed him silently the rest of the way. There was a light in the library still and at Steve's knock her father came out to the door. "I've got your child here, Louis. She fell asleep on my davenport and I found her there when I got home just now."

"For goodness sake, Laurie," her father said, "I thought you were upstairs in your own bed asleep."

She went past him swiftly. "Good night, Dad."

In her own room she shut the door and stood there against it. Her eyes brimmed and spilled over. The salty tears stung her cheeks and one ran down her nose. Steve's words echoed in her mind confusedly.

Maybe she should go back and marry Fletcher. She felt miserably lost and confused.

New Trial For Sleeping Soldier

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A new court martial has been ordered for a 20-year-old soldier who was convicted of sleeping on sentry duty at the Korean front lines.

The court of military appeals—the highest tribunal of the armed services—ruled yesterday that a technical error constituted a "substantial prejudice" to the case involving Pvt. Warren G. McConnell, of Alloway, N. J.

This error, the court said, was that the law officer at the original court martial in Korea conferred with the military court while neither McConnell nor his attorney was in the room.

The court did not go into the merits of the case.

The Haverstraw

Can Grow With Family's Needs

Rooms	Six
Bedrooms	Four
Closets	Eight
Cubage	22,000 ft.
Dimensions	27' x 38'

Containing four good sized rooms (including two bedrooms) on the ground floor, "The Haverstraw" also has two spacious bedrooms on the second floor. The second story does not, of course, have to be finished when the house is originally constructed; it can be left unfinished until the need arises for extra space or until such time as the home owner has the extra funds on hand to take care of this extra work.

Measuring 27'x38', "The Haverstraw" can be built on a 50 foot lot. Cubage of the house is 22,000 feet. No garage is specified in the accompanying plan, but one can easily be built if the home owner so desires. A larger lot will then be required, however.

The slightly slanted roof of "The Harverstraw" gives this house a cozy appearance, seems to tie it more closely to the ground. Two more architectural features that enhance the exterior appearance of "The Haverstraw" are the wide outside chimney and the three windowed bay in the front living room wall.

Although small in size, the entry hall protects the living room from drafts caused by opening the front door. Stairs to the second floor lead up from this hallway.

The unusually large breakfast area is divided off from the kitchen proper by an L shaped array of working counters. Since there is no dining room proper in "The Harverstraw", the family will find this breakfast area a most convenient place in which to eat their meals.

All of the bedrooms in this well planned house reap the benefits of cross ventilation. Each bedroom also has a spacious closet so that storage is no problem for the family that builds this modern home. Additional—and certain-to-be-welcomed-storage space is provided by the drawers under the eaves in the second story bedrooms.

There are spacious linen closets on both floors so that the homemaker will have clean bed linen and towels handy whether she's working on the first or second floor of the house.

Bathrooms on both floors are large enough to hold a tub and an built-in-shower. Thus, even with a large family, there should be no bathroom bottleneck in the morning.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost.

For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor Dept. 15 Daily Press and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Taxes Can Be Cut, Finance Expert Says

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A top Republican money expert says taxes can be cut safely if there is no all-out war.

Rep. Daniel Reed of New York, who is in line to become chairman of the tax-handling House Ways and Means Committee if the Republicans dominate the next Congress, said in a statement yesterday taxes can be cut—but Democrats won't do it.

Reed said if Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, the Democratic nominee, is elected he will "foltaxing policies of his predecessor."

Elaine Norton And Howard Sigan Exchange Vows

In a ceremony at high noon today at All Saints' Church in Gladstone Miss Elaine Norton of San Francisco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Norton, 520 3d Ave. S., Escanaba, exchanged marriage vows with Howard Sigan.

Father Matthias LaViolette solemnized the service before an altar adorned with mixed bouquets of all-white flowers.

Imported ice blue lace and nylon tulle fashioned the bride's ballerina length gown, detailed with an off-the-shoulder yoke and long tight sleeves. Her French illusion veil was held in place by a cap of matching lace. She carried a cascade of phalenopsis orchids and lily of the valley.

Gowns of Rose Taffeta

Identical gowns of iridescent rose taffeta were worn by Mrs. Roy J. Burroughs, Gladstone, sister of the bride, who was matron of honor, and Miss Phyllis Johnson of San Francisco, the bridesmaid. The gowns were styled with portrait necklines and short sleeves and the skirt fullness was formed by unpressed pleats. Their small hats were of matching material. They carried cascade bouquets of blue and white poms.

Jack Sigan served as best man for his brother. They are sons of Nick Sigan of 1224 Minnesota Ave., Gladstone. Ushers were Charles Lundmark and Gene Verhamme.

Mrs. Norton wore beige lace over taffeta and a green cymbidium orchid corsage for her daughter's wedding.

A luncheon was served to immediate members of both families and the wedding party at the Norton cottage, "The Breakers,' Ford River Road. The bride's parents are giving the afternoon reception at their home. Pouring at the reception are Miss Lorraine Willis and Mrs. Carmel Cannon.

Honeymoon In Canada

The newlyweds will live near Marquette when they return from a honeymoon in Canada. Both are graduates of Gladstone High School and Mr. Sigan attended Michigan State College. His bride has been employed by Trans-World Airlines in San Francisco.

The wedding guests from away were Miss Phyllis Johnson of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sigan of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cecil, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bebeau, Sturgeon Bay, Ralph Norton of East Greenwich, R. I., and Mrs. Gordon O'Brien and Colleen of Madison, Wis.

AS WE LIVE

It's No Cinch To 'Make' A Man Love You, But Try!

By Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.

One of the illusions of young people is the belief they can "make" someone who shows no interest in them like them. There are many ways to gain the respect and friendship of another person, but not by force, as "making" suggests. That is why the girl who wrote the following letter is on the wrong track:

(Q) "I have a boyfriend who likes my girlfriend, not me. My girlfriend used to like him, but no more. My friends tell me to give this boy up but I can't do it. What should I do to make him like me?"

(A) Have you ever heard of the old saying, "You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink?" That saying applies to you and the boy you like. You simply can't make him like you if he is not interested in you.

You say he is your "boyfriend." By that, I assume you mean that he knows you as he knows a lot of other girls. But if he is interested in your friend, or some other girl, his interest in you will stay just where it is now. And that does not seem to be satisfactory to you.

If you want to take a gambler's chance on winning this boy, that is all right provided you know from the start that the cards are pretty heavily stacked against you. If you are unwilling to accept defeat gracefully, without allowing yourself to be upset by it, follow your friends' advice and forget this boy.

If, however, you are convinced that you can be a good sport about the matter if you make no headway in spite of your efforts, then try as hard as you can to win this boy's interest to the point where he will look upon you as his "girlfriend."

Your first move will be to find out from your friend just what it was that made this boy like her. Was it because she was a good dancer, an amusing companion, or what? Now that she is through with him, she should not mind passing on her secrets to you.

Then see if the same tricks that worked for her work for you. Try to model yourself along the lines she found attracted the boy and see if you can cast the same spell over him that she did. If that doesn't work, then try being your natural self, minus any aggressiveness or attempt to hook him at any cost.

Dr. Hurlock is author of 11 books in psychology. Her advice in this column is free. Write her in care of this newspaper.

MISS CHUNG SUL YOUN of Seoul, Korea, who attends school here in the United States, is shown wearing her native costume. It is not everyday garb, though, for this miss, who is as modern as her sisters in Korea are not. (Daily Press Photo)

Woman's Life In Korea Much Different Says Miss Sul Youn

By JANIS BERGMAN

Miss Chung Sul Youn of Seoul, Korea, is quite sure that the American woman of today would have some difficulty in adjusting to the role a Korean woman plays. "In the United States, women have more freedom and opportunities in society without men," Miss Youn says.

A guest of the John L. Greenes, 515 S. 5th St., 19 year old Miss Youn is a student at Denison University in Granville, O., where she will be a sophomore in the fall. Her family and the Greenes became close friends while Mr. Greene was with the military government in Seoul at the close of the war.

In Korea today, men are first in everything from going through a door to being the head of the household. The fact that woman suffrage there has recently become a reality detracts not one whit from the idea that men come first.

May Not Work

Miss Youn decided that though "most American girls seem to want to get married, they want to work too." This practice isn't satisfactory at all with the Korean husband. (Even high school students aren't allowed to work during their summer vacations.)

However, if a girl decides she doesn't want to marry the man her family has picked out for her, she isn't forced to. American women are so much more aggressive, says Miss Youn, perhaps because they do have to find their own husbands. In some ways, she thinks, the old system of family arrangements might be better.

Miss Youn's parents and a younger sister are still in Korea, living in Pusan. At the outbreak of the war, her father was accused by the communists of being pro-American and had to go into hiding. The Youns lived in Seoul for three months under communist authority before they were evacuated to Pusan.

The reason for her father's pro-American tag was because of her older brother who is doing graduate work in engineering at the University of Michigan.

Miss Youn also has another sister studying horticulture at a small school near Philadelphia. They were together last Christmas, the first one Miss Youn had ever spent away from home.

Major in Chemistry

She came directly from Pusan to Ohio on a student visa. She's planning to major in chemistry, with an eye toward chemical engineering. The difference between her schooling in Korea and college life was very apparent. In Korean schools, boys and girls are segregated. "You get far more studying done that way," says Miss Youn. Grades are the same in either country, though; an A is an A in both countries.

Her main difficulty was the English language, although she speaks it very fluently. She learned Oxford English in school in Korea which doesn't quite match American idioms.

Her college life has provided far more socially than at home. Young people her age don't often meet in mixed groups just for fun's sake in Korea. "Boys here seem much more obvious in their attentions toward girls," Miss Youn commented. Then too, girls in Korea already have a man arranged for them. "They don't have to go to parties to decide."

Miss Youn is glad she picked Denison because it is a small school and the students are "active and easy to get to know." She feels it gives her a "better chance to know America" than at a larger school.

Wear Occidental Clothing

There are only two other oriental students at Denison besides Miss Youn. They all wear occidental clothing just as the people do in Korea. "It's cheaper," said Miss Youn, the bobby soxer, with a smile.

But Miss Youn has also found that many Americans are still abysmally ignorant of the Korean situation. In fact, even last year, many students "didn't even know there was a Korea."

The future of Korea? Miss Youn says she is young to determine it; but she feels there should be stringent policy by the U. N. to prevent Russia from taking over her coutnry.

De Givenchy Is New Leader Of Paris Fashions

By NADEANE WALKER

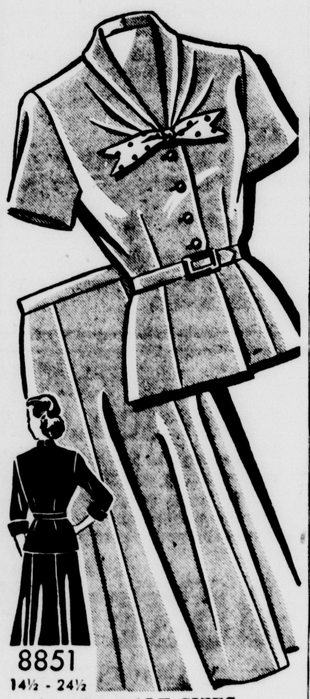

PARIS—(AP)—Dior and Fath must move over to make room at the top for a new star in the French fashion world.

Last night Hubert De Givenchy, in the second season of his young career, proved his overnight success last spring was no lucky accident. Skeptics, who wondered if he might be a one-idea man who had spent his talent in one burst, saw a second collection even better than his first, brimming with new ideas.

Smartly simple suits, slimmed down with "penguin" velvet insets on the breast set the opening pace. Heavy rope fringes transformed boleros into suit jackets, wiglike brimless cloche hats in hairy felt covered the hair completely, fur-printed silk dresses, suits and coats were prettier than the pelts they imitated, and old-fashioned tapestry roses for cocktail and evening clothes drew admiration.

If Givenchy seems to sew for a fairy princess, his styles would catch the fancy of any woman. His prettiest stole (evening wrap) was made of white mink, with fan sleeves inset. His hand-woven tapestry evening gowns must cost a fantastic sum for the material alone.

Givenchy designed his own material, including a charming silk print of golden-eyed blue Persian cat faces.

Today's Recipes

Here is a tested recipe for dill pickles in a crock or keg requested a few days ago by a Rapid River reader.

Dill Pickles

Wash medium size cucumbers with a vegetable brush. Do not use too large a cucumber as they do not keep well. Sprinkle about one-half cup coarse salt in bottom of crock. Add two stalks of dill and about one-half peck of cucumbers and a small piece of alum, and so on until crock is filled. Take boiling water and about one quart of vinegar for a five gallon corck and let boil. Pour on cucumbers. Put over crock a large plate with weight and cover. Pickles will be ready to use in about 10 or 15 days.

Home Safety Is Teen Risk

By ALICIA HART

NEA Beauty Editor

Now is the time for all good teen-agers to join forces with their families and make a home-safety survey.

A torn place in the stair covering, a broken board on the porch or a loose brick in the front walk may cause serious injury to a member of the family or a friend.

If you are in favor of the idea of preventing accidents, but don't know where to start, mutual casualty safety engineers have a number of suggestions that you can easily follow.

Make a careful check of all stairways for uneven places in floor boards or worn places in carpeting. See to it that your stair railing isn't loose or made untrustworthy because of rotting wood or termites.

Ask your dad to inspect the cellar to make sure there are no flammable materials and no loose or frayed wiring. You can busy yourself in the meantime by looking through the attic and getting rid of any fire hazards that may have accumulated.

Suggest to your mother that she use non-skid wax on the floors whenever possible as well as rugs with non-slip bases. Night lights should be provided over stairways. Help your mother to keep all the stairways clear of children's toys. If you spill water, grease or any other liquid on the kitchen floor, wipe it up immediately.

Last year 27,000 people were killed and 4,100,000 injured in accidents in American homes, according to the National Safety Council. Why don't you make it your own personal summer project to see that your family is never included in such figures?

Make kitchen life easy for yourself! Keep a well - stocked emergency shelf holding soups; canned juices; canned fruits, vegetables, fish and meats; relishes, jams and extras such as mushrooms and maraschino cherries. Ready - mixes for making pancakes, biscuits, cakes, and cookies will deserve a shelf all to themselves.

How Advertising Helps You Get MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

Advertising

... brings you news about better products you need

... tells you where to get what you want when you want it

... makes lower prices possible through mass production and mass selling

Yet Picture How Little All This Costs

For instance, advertising big-name brands of bread costs less than the wrapper.

Any other method of selling would cost the manufacturer more and therefore raise the price. Otherwise he wouldn't use advertising.

LUDINGTON BUY-LINES

OIL can cause a lot of friction internationally speaking. But the oil I want to talk about at the Nu Way Cleaners is part of—a fabulous new cleaning process they've just adopted, and it really makes things smooth. It's Sta-Nu, a process which replaces vital textile oils and gives greater resistance to soiling and wrinkling. Sta-Nu really puts pep back into clothes that have been dried out with ordinary cleaning! This new process is exclusive with the Nu Way Cleaners and will be used with all their drycleaning at no extra cost to you. Be sure to send your clothes in to Nu Way the next time they need cleaning. You'll agree it's the Nu Way to dry clean clothes!

CIVILIZATION has been defined as the advancement from shoeless toes to toeless shoes! And the height of civilization is when you step forward in shoes from the Mitzi Shop. If you're thrifty, you'll snatch up several pairs of summer whites . . . both play and dress shoes . . . now slashed to almost half price! You'll also want a peek at Kickerinos . . . the marvelous nationally advertised shoes that Mitzi's carry. Specially priced at a wee $4! The lush colors — red, green, tangerine, smoked elk, and tan will blend with Fall costumes. New Fall styles arriving daily—so make your tooties toe the line in shoes from Mitzi's!

I DON'T know much about the foreign policy at the Photo Art Shop — but they sure are politicians when it comes to their foreign pottery! New arrivals of Italian ware and English cottage sets are taking the spotlight this week. The brightly painted Italian pottery is available in sweet bonbon dishes with elaborately sculptured flowers on the cover; also in large relish dishes with 4 or 7 sections, and in sugar and creamers. The English cottage sets have both tea and coffee pots shaped like little cottages — also cookie jars.—The eyes have it!

ALWAYS liked the story about the sweet young thing in a ranch style night club. Returning from her search for the powder room, she queried, "George, am I a steer or a heifer?" About the little bisque china animals at Eden's Gift Shop there's no doubt. Signs around the necks of these darling knickknacks tell all. You'll like the the gold hoofs on "A Bum Steer", and the pastel wreath of flowers around the neck of "Holy Cow". Election year classics are a "For-get-me not" elephant and a "Bonnie Bray" donkey. About three inches long, in dull pink bisque with pastel and gold touches: price, $2. A heavenly menagerie in the gift garden of Eden!

THE brides this summer really take the cake — from Vagn's Bakery Bar. It's no wonder so many discriminating brides choose their bridal cake from this excellent bakery. After a peek into that immaculate kitchen I'm not surprised. There I saw that genius, Vagn Gydesen, at work; and you will excuse the pun if I say that for my dough there's the captain of cookery! Wedding cakes of all sizes from the simplest to the most elaborate are turned out at Vagn's Bakery Bar. There's a large selection of top ornaments to choose from—you pays your money and you takes your choice.

IF your latest sewing project has you hemming—and hawing — why not leave the most bothersome details to the Singer Sewing Center? Here you will find sewing services that will give your finished garments a really professional look. Belts and buckles, custom made buttons, trim buttonholes, and hemstitching are just the things to keep your clothes from looking homemade. So get away from that sew-sew look in your back to school sewing or your own Fall wardrobe with Singer Sewing services!

MY husband says knitting gives women something to think about while they're talking! Personally, after a look at the perfection of the Jantzen knitwear at Gartner's I think we may as well put down the needles, girls! The new 100% virgin worsted wool sweaters are something! Divinely soft shades that will melt in your mouth and are designed to melt some man's heart! I exclaimed over the fine full tailoring and the ribbon reinforced shoulder seams which show these sweaters are made by perfectionists! And skirts to match or mix! All I can say is Jantzen and Gartner's is some combination!

IN lots of hospitals the men take a turn for the nurse! There's a new movie about an intern who gets his first case—on a doctor! Yes, June Allyson plays the part of a woman doctor in the thrilling picture, "The Girl in White". Arthur Kennedy and Gary Merrill round out the splendid cast. The setting is fifty years ago when, they tell me, woman's place was in the home! June Allyson plays the true life story of Dr. Emily Dunning who defied convention by becoming the first woman ambulance surgeon. "The Woman in White" has just the prescription you need for relaxation in a tense world. Begins at the Michigan Theater this Sunday . . . fortified for real medicinal value!

"Survivor" swims to deflated lifeboat, pulls gas release cable.

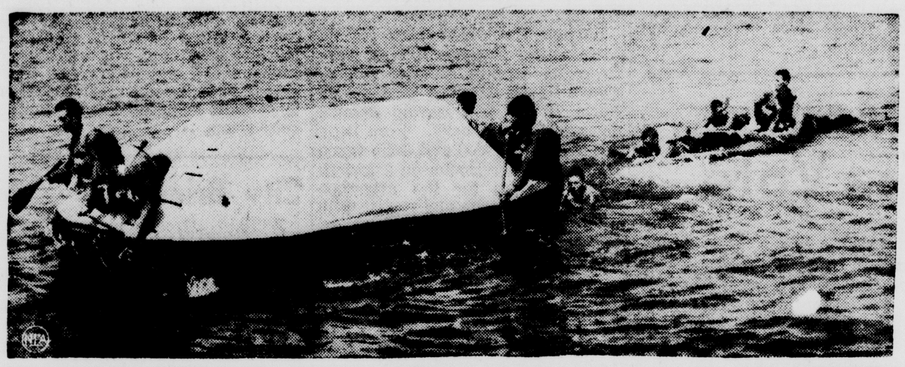

Under pressure of gas, lifeboat snaps into shape, canopy erects itself and first survivors prepare to climb aboard.

Survivors inflate, with hand pump, floor liner which insulates floor in cold climates, doubles as extra life raft in warm weather.

NAVY DEMONSTRATES ITS NEW 'SELF-RISING' LIFEBOAT

The Navy recently made a dramatic test of a new rubber lifeboat at the New York Naval Air Station at Floyd Bennett Field, where these pictures were taken. In a simulated sea disaster, a Coast Guard helicopter dropped one of the new lifeboats to "survivors" struggling in the water. Half a minute after hitting the water, the "package" opened, the boat ballooned into shape and raised its protective canopy. In a short time—before any of them had time to suffer from exposure—the sailors climbed aboard and paddled to shore. Outstanding feature of the new boat, developed by the Navy in cooperation with the B. F. Goodrich Company, is its ability to inflate in 30 seconds and provide shelter, with a 70-degree temperature, for 15 survivors in either sub-zero or blistering tropical weather. Deflated package is shown overboard. When a gas release cable is pulled, carbon dioxide gas under pressure quickly snaps the 230-pound, 15½-foot-long craft into shape.

With everything shipshape, the survivors paddle toward shore, taking in tow one of the inflated floor liners which carries several men.

HERE'S HOW—Summer wash trousers are easy to iron if you know how. Place trousers on board, turn out pockets and press them and waistband first. Next press both sides of front opening. Then place flat on board and be sure trouser seams match. Fold back top leg and press inside of bottom leg to crotch. Then replace top leg and press toward waistband. Last turn trousers over and repeat. Steam iron helps.

To Build Spans Across Indian

Forest Service contracts have been let for construction of new bridges over the Indian River at Steuben and the Ten Mile Dam, it is reported by Edwin Crook, local forest ranger.

Steel and concrete spans will be built at an estimated cost of $35,000. Work at the Ten Mile is expected to start in about 10 days.

The bridge at the Ten Mile will replace any old structure which was partially destroyed several years ago. A logging company dam years ago was built at the site to retain Indian River water for annual log drives, and remnants of the structure may still be seen in the water.

The Steuben bridge will replace a structure which has been declared unsafe.

Both bridges will have a carrying capacity of 20 tons.

Unconstructed construction contemplated this summer by the Forest Service are a bridge across the Fishdam River west of Cooks and installation of a large culvert at Bear Creek north of the Cooks school.

Laying of the culvert, estimated to cost $3,000, will start next week and the bridge will be started in about a month. Bridge cost is figured at $6,000. Ray Lancour will supervise the two jobs.

The next evening of play will be held Thursday evening, Aug. 14. Various non-members of the club who have assisted in landscaping the club building grounds recently will be guests at the dinner following matches, it was decided.

Twilight league competition will be concluded with the round Aug. 14.

Cottage Grove To Have Open House Sunday Afternoon

Open house will be held between 2 and 4 p. m. Sunday, Aug. 3, at the new Cottage Grove motel, Garden Ave., it is announced by Norman Oliver, owner and manager.

The new motel, 72 feet long and 42 feet deep, was recently completed by Oliver. The interior finish is red cedar and the exterior is constructed of asbestos shingles. The building has tile floors and is warmed by radiant gas heat.

Completion of the motel structure gives Cottage Grove a total of 18 beds. In addition to the motel the establishment has five cottages plus a residence and office. It is open the year around.

An unusual feature of Oliver's resort development is a neon sign erected on top of an 80-foot steel pole, believed highest of its type in the state. The sign is visible for miles and is particularly clear to lake traffic several miles out in Lake Michigan.

Oliver went into the resort and cabin business five years ago.

Importance Of Vote Is Again Emphasized By Rotary Committee

The importance of voting in the primary election next Tuesday, Aug. 5, is again stressed by the "register and vote" committee of the Manistique Rotary Club.

A. J. Cayia, who with Carl Olson is committee co-chairman, said yesterday that every registered elector has a patriotic obligation to go to the polls next Tuesday and cast his ballot.

Election records for many years prove, he said, that a vast segment of American citizens fail to register or vote. "They are permitting others to do their deciding for them, and, as a result, sometimes the best qualified man or woman fails to get elected," he pointed out.

The free ballot, he said, is one of the peak achievements of civilization, and it took over 5,000 years of sweat and suffering and effort to obtain it. Even now, he continued, millions of the world's citizens either have no vote at all or a dictated ballot that is a complete fraud.

Despite committee efforts to get qualified electors registered and voted last spring, hundreds of Manistique citizens failed to cast their ballots at the April city election.

"Our work last spring did produce results," Cayia said, "for many additional electors were registered and many of them voted. We failed, however, to dent very strongly the shell of apathy and indifference; unless we can succeed in arousing a majority of our people to the vital need of voting, our American Way of life can easily come under the control of selfish minorities—or we can lose it completely. The free ballot is our safeguard against those who would destroy the American dream—let's preserve it by using it," he concluded.

Carl Olson, Manistique high school principal, who is the other committee co-chairman, is on a trip to Sweden this summer.

Contractors Here To Recondition Elks And Brault Alleys

One evidence of waning summer this week in Manistique was the annual appearance of contractors to recondition bowling alleys at the Elks Temple and Brault's.

A new Brunswick sander, 42 inches wide, is being used to smooth out rough spots and reshape the alley surfaces. Contractors also are performing necessary repairs to backstops and pinsetters.

Four bowling alleys are located in each establishment and are expected to reopen within a few weeks.

Ruark Ponders O'Dwyer's Ire

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—As far away from Mexico City as West 52nd St. in New York City, I have been hearing about Ambassador Bill O'Dwyer's proposed business ventures, with the strong statement that maybe Mr. O'Dwyer just might stay in Mexico after he quits his office rather than come home to embarrassing questions.

If the rumor is so widespread that the names of business associates are called and the types of businesses listed, then it is hard to understand how his excellency could get so riled up by a simple conjectural story about his proposed Mexican residence. He got wrought up enough to call the reporter "a lying bastard," at a full press conference, and to order him out of the Embassy. This despite the fact that the reporter, Robert Prescott, bureau chief of the United Press in Mexico City, believed he had verified the reports with a phone call to O'Dwyer.

It wasn't a very tough story for a man to get so mad at. Much stronger appraisals have been written about the ambassador, tying him to gangsters and speculating as to the source of his finances. O'Dwyer himself had refused to come home to testify in the investigation of broad police corruption which he had formerly labeled and dismissed as red herring and witch hunt. But O'Dwyer had remained outwardly unruffled to the more serious assaults on his character.

Low Grade Diplomat

But now he screams and rants and curses and pounds the table for a rather mild conjecture over his future plans, which is peculiar. There used to be a Southern saying to the effect that "the hit dog always hollers," another way of paraphrasing the old saw about "He doth protest too much." One wonders idly: Why?

There are some things ambassadors aren't supposed to do, of course, such as making private deals while on their country's service, and contemplating residence in the country to which they are attached—not while still in office. And you might say that correct ambassadorial decorum would proclude profane outbursts in press conferences, although this has proven to be more or less standard operating procedure for O'Dwyer's boss, Harry Truman, a free man with an epithet.

But the whole structure about O'Dwyer's appointment to the post, and his conduct of same, has been so unusual as to bust most of the rules of accepted behaviors. So few men get awarded important diplomatic posts on the eve of a flagrant administrative scandal which rocks the city of which they had been long-time mayor. So few ambassadors get invited to graft investigations and flatly refuse to go.

Linked To Underworld

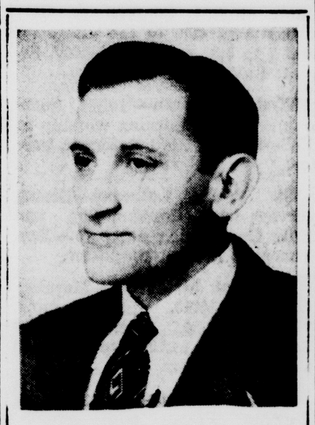

So few ambassadors with chronic heart conditions necessitating frequent leaves of absence from their previous jobs seem to thrive at an altitude of 7,500 feet, where ordinarily hale hearts race and thump from the altitude. So few ambassadors give out interviews that they were forced to borrow money to buy their wives' clothes.

But all of this has been true of Will, the Irish boy who came up through the cops to the mayoralty and who took off for the border on the eve of a sweeping graft scandal. So few public servants in positions of honor have been linked so frankly to the underworld.

So one must confess puzzlement to the furious outburst against a rather innocently speculative little story about the future of a man who is a good bet to be out of work by the first of January, depending on the November elections.

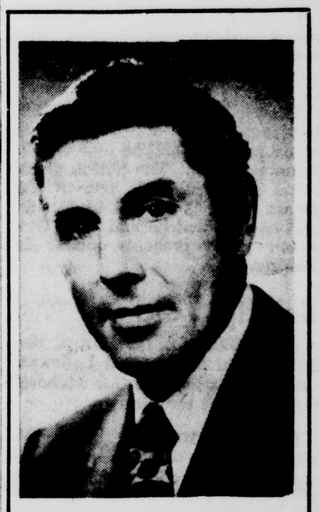

It would appear that Mr. Prescott of the United Press touched a peculiarly sensitive nerve in his little piece about the ambassador's future. If so, one may unearth another old saw: "The guilty flee where no man pursueth," else what's all the fuss about?

Ellingson Family In Reunion Here Sunday

The 24th annual reunion of the Ellingson family is to be held here Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ellingson as host and hostess.

Approximately 80 persons will be present. Most are from the middle west but there will be some from Oregon, Missouri and Minnesota.

First of the Ellingsons in the United States were Mr. and Mrs. Crispinus Ellingson who arrived in this country on July 4, 1872 from a village near Bergen, Norway, at that time a part of Sweden. They were the great great grandparents of Arv Ellingson and they settled originally in Waupaca County, Wis., near what is now known as Scandinavia.

A dinner in the parlors of the Mission Covenant church is to be served at noon.

Is An Institution

During the reunion the family holds a meeting and decides where the next reunion is to be held, they are always on the first Sunday of August, and discusses other pertinent matters.

One of these is the acceptance of a volunteer editor for the Ellingsonian, a mimeographed magazine which is always distributed at the reunion. Officers also are named.

This novel volume called the Ellingsonian carrys minutes of the last meeting, news of births and deaths in the family, a list of those attending the last previous reunion and pages of Life With the Family giving newsy bits about various members of the Ellingson family.

The reunions have always been well attended. One in Wisconsin several years ago had some 200 present.

A number of those attending will stay several days here, and visit Mackinac Island before leaving for a tour of Lower Michigan before starting the trip home.

Joseph C. Titsworth, 1931 Wisconsin avenue, veteran Soo Line conductor, was 65 years of age yesterday and he retired from actice service to take his pension under the National Railroad Retirement act.

Titsworth plans on using his leisure time in working about his home and yard and he also will do some traveling. The Shrine at St. Anne de Beaupre is one of the points he plans to visit in Canada and he said that he and Mrs. Titsworth would probably winter in Florida.

Canvass Board Decides Order Of Amendments

LANSING — (AP) — The State Board of Canvassers has decided the order and wording of three constitutional amendments which will go on the November General election ballot.

Proposal No. 1 will be a legislative recommendation that the search and seizure of narcotics without a search warrant is legal evidence unless taken in dwellings, much the same as dangerous weapons now are in admissable in evidence if taken "accidentally" in the investigation of other crimes.

Proposal Nos. 2 and 3 are proposals to reapportion the legislature.

No. 2 is that supported by the CIO and allied groups to provide for a 33-man Senate and a 99-man House, each elected on a population basis with the secretary of state allowed a 15 per cent margin in fixing districts.

No. 3 is that sponsored by the committee for a "balanced" legislature to provide for a 34-man Senate and a 110-man House, chosen on much the same basis as the present legislature, retaining the moiety clause which guarantees any county at least one representative if it has half of a population ratio.

Big Effort Is Made To Get Out The Vote

(By The Associated Press)

Probably the biggest enlistment campaign for baby sitters the state has ever known is on.

Free care service is being lined up; there's a drive-in registration service available for Ann Arbor residents; Flint has walkie-talkies stationed on street corners to check on registrations for uncertain would-be voters and prizes, awards and challenges are flying back and fourth in a get-out-the-vote campaign that is sweeping Michigan.

In many cities, voters will be rewarded with tags proclaiming, "I voted." Owosso has bought five new voting machines to make balloting easier. Jackson is making a special effort to see that invalids get a chance to register.

Big Campaign

The primary election is Tuesday. Chambers of Commerce, Junior Chambers of Commerce, civic, fraternal, farm and social groups are all working to get out the vote. In many cities, organizations are making a block by block or farm by farm check to see that every eligible person is registered.

Grand Rapids has issued a national challenge to Chambers of Commerce to equal the Grand Rapids voting participation record. More than 86,000 Grand Rapids residents are registered.

At Flint, 17 organizations are vying in a "battle of the ballots" for a cup to be awarded the group with the greatest improvement in member voting records. Flint boasts 91,000 registered voters. Anyone not sure whether he was registered found walkie-talkie equipped volunteers on downtown corners ready to check with the city hall for him.

At Adrian, 88 clubs with a total membership of some 9,000 have signed up to compete for $500 in prizes offered by the Chamber of Commerce to groups with the best voter turnout.

Torchlight Parade

The South Haven Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring a "voice of the citizen" award that will go to the Michigan community casting the largest per capita vote.

Port Huron staged a costume torchlight parade Friday night that wound up on the city hall lawn where "soapbox" speeches were made. Port Huron claims more than 2,000 new registrations to bring the total eligible to vote to 19,225.

To make things as easy as possible for the would-be voters at Ann Arbor, registration booths were set up in the municipal park area so that drivers could register at night and without leaving their automobiles.

In addition to the new voting machines in each Owosso voting precinct, Owosso township has two new voting machines that will be used for the first time in the primary. It will be the first time voting machines have been used in a township.

Big Registration

The Greenville registration drive has produced 3,732 registered voters, leaving fewer than 300 possible eligibles not registered.

Effective registration is at a record peak in both St. Joseph and Benton Harbor. Benton Harbor has 9,800 of its 18,500 citizens registered.

Some 2,000 volunteers have been recruited by the Detroit Junior Chamber of Commerce to work within the political party of their choice to get out the vote. The volunteers serve as precinct workers, block captains and challengers.

At Iron Mountain, most of the activity seems to have partisan sponsorship, that of the Dickinson county Republican committee. But the workers are putting on the same house-to-house effort as non-partisan groups do in other cities.

In many communities, Lansing, for example, the gimmick is to call your nearest car dealer. He will send a car—and a Boy Scout or Girl Scout—to baby sit if such service is needed on voting day.

Edward Frey, state director of elections, says that in spite of the fine job done to get out the vote, he expects no records to be set in the primary.

In Detroit, Louis Urban, director of Detroit elections, expects the vote Tuesday to run about 350,000 which would be below the primary record of 373,000 set in 1949.

But these predictions don't dampen the get-out-the-vote enthusiasm one bit. Suppose the primary voting doesn't set a record—it's just a dress rehearsal for the registration campaign that will precede the November balloting.

Heat From Cows Aids Barn Deterioration

MINNEAPOLIS—(AP)—Farm researchers of a regulator company (Minneapolis - Honeywell) report that cows throw off so much body heat that the resultant condensation is a factor in the deterioration of farm buildings.

Twenty cows generate enough heat to warm a five-room house on a winter day, they say. Experts are now trying to develop more scientifically controlled barn temperatures.

Election Board Members Listed

Election boards which will serve at the Primary election on Tuesday have been chosen. In keeping with a policy established several years ago in elections where the vote is likely to be heavy, split election boards will function on Tuesday. In other words at 8 when the polls close, members of the board with the exception of the chairmen, are released and replaced by counters.

It has been found that placing fresh workers on the boards after the others have served from 7 in the morning results in faster tallying.

The boards:

First Precinct—Mrs. Alice Luce, chairman; Esther Holm, Mrs. Emma Feldt and Mrs. Dorothy Zimmel. Counters—Paul Louis, Elizabeth Norby and Mrs. Connie Stock.

Second Precinct—Rev. Theophil Hoffman, chairman; Mrs. Hugh McMillan, Mrs. Frank J. Miller and Mrs. L. J. Smith. Counters—Mrs. Anna Praiss, Mrs. Joseph Butch and Mrs. Emerald Vanlerberg.

Third Precinct — Mrs. Rose Louis, chairman; Mrs. Victoria Cretens, Mrs. Ida Strand and Mrs. Rose Snouwaert. Counters—Mrs. Francis Londo, Mrs. Ralph Ottensman and Mrs. Lavina Hoverman.

And find the time long since you went;
There are some who think of you always,
And try to be brave and content.

Big Jack Miron will have plenty of competition for an end berth on Vanderbilt University's 1952 grid squad .. Five lettermen end candidates are returning for football practice which opens Sept. 1 .. Miron, at 6-3 and 205 pounds, is the biggest of the 14 ends seeking regular berths .. He's a sophomore this season.

Menominee's Billy Wells was pictured in a recent national sports magazine article devoted to college football prospects this Fall .. The speedy Michigan State College halfback is considered a logical choice for a starting position on the Spartan eleven .. The Spartans are figured to rank with the best in the nation again this year.

An unusual incident happened in the opening round of the American Legion Junior baseball state tournament, in which Iron River represents the U. P., yesterday morning .. Detroit Ternstedt Post was trailing Muskegon 3-2 in the ninth inning .. With two men on base, the Muskegon pitcher elected to issue a walk to the batter to load the bases .. But on the fourth pitch the batter reached out to whale a single and two men were in before the Muskegon infield could collect it wits .. Muskegon failed to get a run in the bottom of the ninth and lost the game 4-3.

* * * * *

In the past, the big problem for the Upper Peninsula Softball Association was to keep teams from loading the roster at tournament time .. In recent years that problem has been solved by strict roster rules and deadlines .. More recently the problem has been to classify teams properly .. Some areas, for instance, refused to enter their best teams in Class A competition, loading them up in Class B or C .. An effort has been made this year to place all the teams in the U. P. in their proper class .. Escanaba district followed the suggestion of the Association at its classification meeting this week at which 10 district teams were placed in Class A.

Cubs Drub Canadians 12-1 In Exhibition

The Escanaba Cubs rolled to a 12-1 victory over the Canadian Pony Leaguers in an exhibition clash here last evening, with young Gary Paler turning in a masterful pitching performance.

Paler scattered four hits, three singles and a double, while fanning 14 and walking only one in the seven-inning clash.

The Cubs had little trouble with two Canadian pitchers, pounding out 15 base knocks. Rightfielder Tony Kutches led the Cubs at the plate with three singles in three times up. Leftfielder Gary Hirn belted a homer and two singles in four trips. Every Cub with the exception of the pitcher hit safely.

The Escanaba club registered three runs in the first inning and six in the second then coasted to the win. The visitors tallied in the fifth when Cornell doubled and came home on an error at third base.

Davis Cup Team Is Leading Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — The United States Davis Cup tennis team appeared here headed for certain victory today over Cuba in the second round of the North American zone eliminations.

The Americans won two singles matches yesterday and a victory in the doubles today — regarded as almost a certainty — would give them the necessary three matches out of five. The winner will meet the victor in the Canada-Mexico matches in Montreal.

Captain Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, one of the world's finest doubles players, will team up today with Hugh Steart, U. S. intercollegiate champion, against Cubans Pepe Aguero and Juan Weiss.

Two 24-year-old U. S. players held the spotlight yesterday.

Bernard Bartzen, a Fort Sill, Okla., army sergeant and army tennis champion, easily beat Orlando Garrido of Cuba, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1.

But Steewart of Los Angeles lost three games of the first set to Seiss, a dentist, before winning 7-5, 6-0, 6-4.

U. S. Olympic Coach Takes Ill In Finland

HELSINKI — (AP)—Clyde Littlefield, assistant U. S. Olympic track coach from the University of Texas, received two more blood transfusions today and was reported slightly better.

Littlefield, stricken Thursday, is suffering from a bleeding stomach ulcer. The transfusions were the third and fourth undergone by the coach since he was found near collapse in the American village restaurant.

Snead Takes Lead In Tam O'Shanter Meet

CHICAGO— (AP) —"Sam Snead is like a race horse in a field of plough horses," said Buck White, the sage of Greenwood, Miss., who has been playing golf as a pro for 27 years.

"Yep, that Snead is the greatest player in the world," he continued as head of the court in Tam O' Shanter's locker rooms. "That isn't saying he's the best golfer — there's a difference — because maybe Ben Hogan (not entered at Tam) holds that honor.

Sam Snead

"But nobody has as sweet a swing as Snead. And all this stuff you hear about him being a bad putter is newspaper talk—he's as good as there is."

Seven Under

Snead required 32 putts yesterday but still fired a remarkable 65, seven under par, to leap in front by five strokes at the 35-hole juncture of the $30,000 all American tournament.

He tacked his 65 on to an opening 67 for a 132 total to keep up a pace that could shatter the record Tam O' Shanter 72-hole tournament score of 269—19 under regulation—set by Byron Nelson in 1945.

It was Snead's best start in a Tam tournament and his most sizzling stride of the year after winning the Masters' title in April at Augusta, Ga., but flopping in the National Open and National PGA.

Trailing Snead into the third round with 137's were Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., with a second round 68; Carry Middlecoff, the leading money winner and all-American defending champion, with a 69; and a former Texas amateur star, Iverson Martin, now of Maplewood, N. J., with 68.

Unknown In Fourth

Skee Riegel, husky Tulsa, Okla., pro, fashioned a 68 and little-known Henry Castillo of Alexandria, La., who came in with yesterday's best round of 66, hoisted 138's for fourth place.

Julius Boros, 1952 National Open champion, Ray Gafford, the thin man from Dallas, Tex., and Jim Turnesa, current PGA titlist, followed with 139. Grouped at 140 were Johnny Palmer, Jack Burke, Smiley Quick, Marty Furgol and Ed Oliver.

In all, 46 were bunched at par 144 or better.

Jack McKeighen, a steel worker from Hobart, Ind., and former University of Miami student, topped the all-American amateur division with 145 after the first round leader and defending champion, Frank Stranahan, faded to an 83 for 153.

Louise Suggs of Atlanta, the 1952 women's National Open winner, led her bracket with 150, three strokes ahead of Betty Jameson.

Bears Meet Foster City; Al's Host To Esky Cubs Tomorrow

A doubleheader involving three Escanaba teams will be staged at the city diamond Sunday afternoon.

In the opener at 1, Al's Legion will take on the Escanaba Cubs in a Waubung League clash. The Bears of the Tri County League tangle with Foster City in the second half of the doubleheader at 3.

Al's team, which recently lost in the U. P. championship tourney to Iron River, is undefeated at the head of the Waubung League standings. The club has six straight wins. The Cubs are playing .500 ball with three wins and three losses.

Cass-Erickson

Manager Mac McComber of Al's will hurl southpaw Dick Cass against the Cubs. Al Ness, manager of the Cubs, has nominated Ricky Erickson for starting mound duties.

In the nightcap the league-leading Bears will sent Jack Chriske to the mound seeking his sixth straight Tri County win. And the Bears will be out to make it 10 straight victories in league play.

Remainder of the Bear lineup will be at full strength with Jim Nyquist catching, Babe Kleiman or Ed Gauthier at first, Pete Kutches at second, Paul Gunderman at short, John Martinac at thir, Bob L'Houillier, Tippy Larmay, Ed Lindquist and Bob Dufour staring outfield positions.

Seek Revenge

The Bears will be seeking revenge for one of their two defeats this season. Foster City turned back the Escanaba team 8-6 in first round play. The only other loss suffered by the Bears, to Bark River, was avenged in a second meeting.

Foster City will use Harold Charlevoix, team manager, on the hill. The club is fighting for a playoff berth, at present resting just out of the first division.

Other Tri County games tomorrow will send Bark River to Stephenson, Felch to Daggett, Wallace to Hermansville and Wilson to Perronville.

In other Waubung League action tomorrow Powers will be at Perronville and Gladstone travels to Bark River.

Change Preliminary In Sunday Night's Softball Schedule

The preliminary in Sunday night's doubleheader sofeball exhibition bill at Memorial Field has been changed to feature a pair of Gladstone clubs.

In the 7:15 opener Kipling, Class A club, will meet the Gladstone Merchants. Dick Maki will be on the mound for Kipling.

The nightcap at 8:30 will renew the Dells-Harnies rivalry. The Harnies will send Charley Camps to the mound in an effort to stop the 11-game winning streak of the Dells. It will be a tuneup affair for all four teams before district tournament play begins here Tuesday.

Elegeert, in his 20th year of softball pitching, rates the oldtimer tag in years and experience, but he was borrowed from the current Paper Mills for tonight.

Cinderella-Man Will Race Here

Kansas City's Cinderella-man of dirt track racing, Herschel Wagner, has entered the big car auto races which will be the main feature of Escanaba's Upper Peninsula State Fair on Wednesday afternoon, Aug 20, according to an announcement made by Fair Secretary John McInnis.

Mention the husky Missourian's name in racing circles and everyone will begin talking at once about the young kid who has been taken under the instructive wing of one of the greatest old-timers in racing, George Lawhon, of St. Joe, Mo.

HERSCHEL WAGNER

Spot Youngster

But the story doesn't begin and end there. Just three years ago George and Ernie Lawhon were designing their "dream" car. The one in which two lifetimes of living and eating Indianapolis-type car racing would be wrapped up.

They happened to see a youngster who caught their eye, driving in a Midwestern dirt track meet. These two, who had tutored such drivers as Joie Chitwood, Pat Cunningham and Chuck Frame, were impressed enough to bring the kid into their stable as their throttle-jockey. Another one to listen and learn and maybe some day nurse another Lawhon car to fame and fortune.

This year that "dream" car of the Lawhons is being guided by Wagner. But only George is working on its between races. Ernie died of a heart attack after watching a race last year. George can't go near a race track now because of a weak heart.

Remote Control

Wagner gets his instructions between races. Lawhon uses as tools for his text the reports made by other drivers and owners. He's making a winner out of Wagner by remote control.

The Cinderella-man will compete here against such stars as Billy Richardson, Des Moines, Ia., in a CMC; Billy Gillen, Chicago, Ill., in a Grancor; Paul Craver, Chicago, Ill., in an Offenhauser; Mack McHenry, Witchita, Kan., in an Offenhauser, and many others.

Qualifying time trials start at 1:30 p. m. with the first race at 2:30.

Double No-Hit Reynolds At Peak Of Effectiveness

AP Newsfeatures

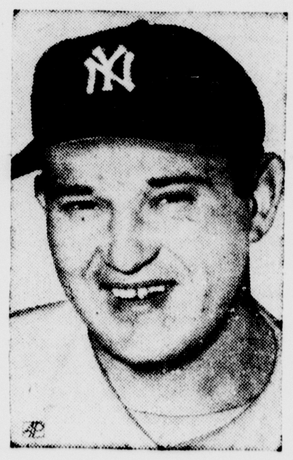

NEW YORK—Allie Pierce Reynolds is the kind of guy who likes to finish what he starts. And sometimes he finishes what other guys start, too.

Reynolds, hard-working right-hander for the New York Yankees, is having one of the best years of his long hurling career in the American League. He completed each of his first 15 starts plus a few relief jobs to insure victories for other Yank twirlers. His string was broken, however, by the Cleveland Indians on the night of July 17.

But it wasn't always so.

In 1949, Casey Stengel's first year at the helm of the New Yorkers, Reynolds just couldn't seem to finish a game. Luckily there was a fireman named Joe Page in the bullpen. That year Allie completed only four games yet managed to win 17. Page finished and saved most of them.

In fact, there were many pundits along baseball row who claimed that the American League had a remarkable new hurler named Reynolds Page.

ALLIE REYNOLDS
A Changed Chucker

Improves With Age

The six feet, 195-pound chucker is improving with age. At 34 he seems to be at his peak of effectiveness.

This season Reynolds is shooting for the league's best earned run mark and strikeout title. But he seriously admits he merely wants to help the Yankees and Stengel win their fourth consecutive pennant and World Series.

"Wahoo," as he is affectionately called by his teammates, is a former start athlete for Oklahoma A&M and is part Indian. Oddly enough, he broke into the major leagues in 1942 with the Cleveland Indians and played for that team until traded to the Yankees for Joe Gordon at the end of the 1946 season.

Good Record

Up to the start of this season Reynolds had won 85 games and lost 41 for the Yankees. That's a mighty impressive record.

Last year Wahoo placed his name indelibly in the record books and the Hall of Fame by pitching two no-hit, no-run games. These performances were registered against a couple of the top clubs in the league—the Indians and the Red Sox.

The going has been tough at times this season. He lost three out of his first four starts. His first two outings were 3-1 losses to Washington and Boston. After whipping the Browns by a 4-1 margin he dropped a heartbreaking 1-0 job to Steve Gromek and the Indians.

What makes Allie's record even more remarkable is that at the end of the '51 season it was questionable whether Reynolds would pitch again. He had complained of a sore elbow and an operation was recommended. The Oklahoman refused and said he'd go along with the old elbow.

The Umpire

By BEANS REARDON
24 Years in National League
(Written for NEA Service)

Question: A runner is on first. The pitcher makes as if to throw to the bag, but holds the ball. The umpire calls a balk, and then the pitcher hurriedly throws the ball over the plate. The batter connects for a homer. Do the runs count?

Beans Reardon

Answer: When an intended throw is called a balk, the ball is dead and play halts until a runner advances by virtue of the decision. So in this case the runner on first moves to second and the batter has to return to the plate.

Q. The batter strikes out but the catcher drops the ball. The ball, however, touched the batter's body or uniform. What is the ruling?

A. The batter is out.

Q. How many seasons did Babe Ruth win in the home-run championship?

A. He annexed the crown outright for 10 years, tied for it on two other occasions.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting, Larry Doby, Indians—hit home run in 10th inning to give Cleveland 6-5, edge over Philadelphia after knocking in two runs earlier with double and single.

Pitching, Satchel Paige, Browns—stopped Yankee rally with bases loaded in seventh and blanked league leaders rest of way to save 2-1 win.

American Athletes Seek To Overcome Russians' Olympic Team Point Margin

HELSINKI — (AP) — The United States Olympic basketball team, rallying after a slow start, whipped a stubborn, ball-freezing Russian team, 36 to 25, today to retain its Olympic title. Russia took second place in the final tournament standing.

John Davies of Australia, a student at the University of Michigan, won the Olympic championship in the men's 200 meters breast stroke today, setting a new Olympic record. Davies was timed in 2:34.4, breaking the record of 2:36.8 which he and Gerry Holan of Westchester, Ill., set in the preliminary heats.

HELSINKI — (AP)—Chile captured fifth place in the Olympic basketball tournament today and Holland took fifth and Belgium sixth in water polo.

Those were the most significant developments of a light morning of competition that served merely to clear the way for the big doings this afternoon in the last day of major competitions in the 15th Olympic games.

The scrappy Chilean basketball team upset Brazil 58 to 49, reversing the decision of their earlier meeting that dropped the favored Brazilians into sixth place. The United States and Russia meet in the title game this afternoon (9 a. m., EST).

In water polo, Holland overwhelmed Spain 7-1 and Belgium splashed to an unexpected 3-3 tie in a pair of games for teams in the losers bracket. Thus Holland took fifth place, Belgium sixth, Russia seventh and Spain eighth, shutting Russia out of a possible point in the unofficial over-all team scoring.

Possible Third

The top four teams get into action this afternoon with Hungary expected to finish on top and the United States posibly third but more likely fourth.

The only other event on this morning was the gruelling cycling road race, with individual and team titles at stake. It is an affair of slightly more than 120 miles. After about one third of the race had been completed about a dozen riders already had dropped out. The withdrawals included two of the four Japanese riders, thus eliminating Japan from the team championship.

S. Martensson of Sweden was leading the field after six laps and there were no Americans in contention.

Rusia moved into the final full day of Olympic competition today holding a 24½ point lead over the United States and the big question everywhere was: Can they keep it?

The Americans chopped 34 points off the Russian advantage yesterday and qualified five fearless fighters for the finals of tonight's boxing competition. The Rusians went scoreless.

The U. S. boxers, too-often also rans in previous international tournaments, could provide enough points to guarantee the unofficial team title.

Three May Win

They are assured of a minimum of 25 points and at least three of the five—middleweight Floyd Paterson, light heavyweight Norvel Lee and heavyweight Eddie Sanders—look like they'll go all the way.

Russia lost four out of six semi-finals as only its light welterweight and welterweight survived. American and Russian boxers will clash in just one of the 10 finals. Charley Adkins, of Gary, Ind., meets Viktor Mednov in the new light welterweight division. It should be close.

The United States hasn't won an Olympic boxing title since 1932. In 1948 only one American got as far as the finals.

All of the American points yesterday came in swimming and diving and the Star-Spangled aquatic stars should continue to score heavily in today's last four finals.

The chances look especially bright in women's high diving where the three American entries—Pat McCormick, Paula Jean Myers and Juno Irwin—finished 1-2-3 in their qualifying dives. The Russians qualified two girls, fifth and eight.

Classic Cage Clash

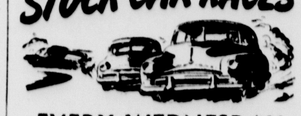

The United States has two men going in the 1,500 meter free style and one in the 200 meter breast stroke. Russia isn't represented in either one, nor in the women's 400 meter free style where the U. S. again has two entries.

The biggest direct U. S.-Russian clash today comes in basketball where the unbeaten Americans meet the once-defeated Soviets. The lone Russian loss came at the hands of the king-sized U. S. quintet earlier in the tournament and the Americans are confident they can repeat.

The Americans will pick up at least one point in the team division of the equestrian event and the Russians may score quite a few in cycling, where the U. S. doesn't figure to place in the first 30.

Although today ends full scale competition, one event remains on tomorrow's program. It is the prix des nations, the show jumping section of the equestran competition where Mexico is heavily favored. Both the Russians and Americans are unknown quantities in this event.

Rookie And Returnee Provide Spark

Giants' Shakeup Pays Off

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Rookie Jim (Dusty) Rhodes looks like the man the New York Giants have been waiting for since Willie Mays marched off to the army. With seven home runs in 10 games at the Polo Grounds, the Nashville grad gives Manager Leo Durocher needed strength in the outfield to help the club's latest drive on the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

DUSTY RHODES
Giants

With Rhodes a fixture in left, and Monte Irvin back in right field, Durocher made the final move to tighten his outer defense last night when he shifted Bobby Thomson from third base to center field. Hank Thompson moved from center back to his old third base job.

The Bobby Thomson-Hank Thompson shakeup didn't click when Durocher tried desperately to fill the hole left by Mays on the June western swing. Hank floundered at third, prompting Leo to restore his "regular" infield.

Three-Run Homer

Leo's latest "operation shakewell" produced the desired result. Irvin, making his first appearance in the starting lineup since he broke his right ankle in a spring exhibition, drove home the first run in a four-run explosion against Pittsburgh's Harry Fisher, in the first inning. Rhodes smashed a three-run homer and the Giants were off and running, enroute to a 7-3 victory.

The Giants, who have missed many chances to gain on Brooklyn during the past week, picked up a full game when the Dodgers lost to Chicago, 6-1. New York now trails by five games.

Preacher Roe lost after seven straight 1952 wins, bowing to Bob Rush.

The Cubs chased "The Preach" in the fifth when they ran their lead to 3-0. Hank Sauer's 26th homer with two men on base in the seventh came off rookie Ray Moore, just up from St. Paul.

Rally To Win

St. Louis slugged a parade of Philadelphia pitchers for 14 hits and a 10-5 decision to end the Phils' six-game win string. Four runs in a ninth-inning spurt that included triples by Stan Musial and Solly Hemus and a two-run homer by Enos Slaughter nailed down the win.

Max Surkont threw two wild pitches to batter Andy Seminick in the ninth to give Cincinnati the first run of the ball game. Eddie Pellagrini's single scored the second to make it 2-0 for the Reds' Kenny Raffensberger over Boston.

Old Satchel Paige helped the St. Louis Browns tighten the American League race by dumping the front-running New York Yankees, 2-1. Clint Courtney, ex-Yank farmhand, drove in both runs with a homer and single as Allie Reynolds was knocked out. Paige came on the scene after the Yanks scored one run off Gene Bearden and had the bases loaded with two out in the seventh. He blanked the Yanks on one hit the rest of the way.

Cut Yanks' Lead

The Yanks' loss and Cleveland's 6-5 triumph over Philadelphia on Larry Doby's 10th inning home run, reduced New York's American League lead to two games. Doby knocked in two runs earlier with a double and single. His 21st homer came on the first pitch by loser Bob Hooper. Gust Zernial's grand-slam homer had tied the score for the A's in the ninth.

Mel Parnell, blazing hot since he rejoined the Boston Red Sox after his recovery from bursitis, set down Detroit with eight hits, 3-1. The stylist lefty has won four of five in the last month.

Boston pulled within 3½ games of the Yanks and fourth-place Washington was only 4½ back after the Senators' 3-1 victory over Chicago. Walt Masterson shut out the White Sox until the seventh when Tommy Wright's pinch triple scored Darrel Johnson.

Third Base Hot Spot For Tigers Yesterday

DETROIT— (AP) —You've heard some baseball fans call third base the hot corner.

Well, third base was the corner upon which the Boston Red Sox built a 3-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers last night.

AL FEDEROFF
Tigers

Everything that happened to the Red Sox at third base turned out well. For the Tigers, third base was an overstuffed headache.

Here's the third sack scenario:

Act one—fourth inning, Red Sox batting.

Dick Gernert doubled Dom DiMaggio home from second. Gernert then made a dash for third while loser Bill Wight was preparing to pitch to Del Wilber.

Drops Peg

Wight saw him take off and his throw apparently nailed Garnert, but third baseman Fred Hatfield dropped the ball. It rolled a few yards away and Hatfield didn't chase it immediately.

Gernert skipped to his feet and sailed for home, beating Hatfield's throw. That made it 3-0.

Act two—Fourth inning, Tigers batting.

Hatfield was on third and Walt Dropo on second. Steve Souchock slapped a grounder at third baseman George Kell and Kell easily trapped Hatfield, who had headed far down the baseline. Don Lenhardt grounded to Kell who forced Dropo at third.

Act three, the most embarrassing—sixth inning, Tigers batting.

With one out Dropo was on second and Lenhardt on first as the result of singles.

Two On Third

Matt Batts, whose single drove in Souchock with the only run in the fourth inning, singled to left field and Dropo sailed around third.

But big Walt fell down just as he cleared third. The confusion began there and robbed the Tigers of at least one run.

Walt, thinking the throw might be to third, scrambled back to third.

Meanwhile leftfielder Hoot Evers had fallen down also and wasn't in position to make a throw. In addition, Lenhardt was bearing down on third. Dropo had to make a choice.

He chose to run home—the only choice with Lenhardt practically sharing third base with him. But Evers' throw nailed him at the plate.

A crowd of 37,412 saw lefthander Mel Parnell give up eight hits and Wight nine hits.

It was the first time the Tigers had lost a night game in the last five contests. At home Detroit has won seven of ten night games.

West Dominates Tennis Tourney

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — (AP) — The National Junior and Boys' Tennis tournament went into the semifinal round today with the far west dominating the trimmed-down list of survivors.

In the junior division it was top-seeded Bill Quillian of Seattle, Wash., against Jack Frost of Monterrey, seeded third in the upper bracket; the lower bracket pitted Sammy Giammalva of Houston, Tex., against James Read of Santa Monica, Calif.

Boys' pairings sent top-seeded Ron Schoenberg of Los Angeles against Mike Green of Miami Beach in one bracket and Dale Junta of San Leandro, Calif., against Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., in the other.

Quillian, a six-foot-three 17-year-old, powered through the quarter-finals yesterday with a 7-5, 6-1 victory over Edward Rubinoff of Miami Beach. Frost played steadily to eliminate John Been of Shawnee, Okla., 6-2, 6-2.

Read had the easiest time of them all in disposing of David Snyder of Winfield, Kans., 6-3, 6-0. Giammalva was extended before getting by Francisco Contreras of Mexico City, the top-seeded foreign entry, 2-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Schoenberg swept past Maxwell Brown of Louisville, Ky., 6-3, 6-3. But Brown came back in the boys' doubles, pairing with Charles Miller of Anchorage, Ky., to eliminate fourth-seeded Don Hicks of Worcester, Mass., and Richard Hoehn, Hanover, N. H., 6-3, 3-6, 8-6. Brown and Miller were unseeded.

Young Golfing Star Is Out Of Tourney

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Two tournament-wise rivals for national women's golf laurels, Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., and Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore, meet today for the Women's Western Amateur championship.

Curtis Cup star Polly, gunning for the tittle she won in 1950, reached the finals by ending the cinderella-like march of 15-year-old Berri Long of Huntington, W. Va., 4 and 2, in the semifinals yesterday.

Miss Downey goes into the finals for the second straight year of her 2 and 1 triumph over Pat Lesser, Pacific northwest champion from Seattle. Miss Downey was beaten in the finals last year by Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., who was beaten in the first round here by the West Virginia teen-ager.

Water-Borne Saucers Are Set For Gold Cup

SEATTLE — (AP)—Stan Sayres planned today to send his twin queens of the speedboat world—the Slo-Mo-Shuns IV and V—out to the buoy-marked oval on Lake Washington Monday to qualify for the Aug. 9 running of the 45th Gold Cup race.

There was no doubt at all that these water-borne versions of the flying saucer could tour three laps of the three-mile course in the average 75 miles per hour needed for qualifying. Their huge airplane engines, howling for action the instant they start, refuse to move slower than 48 miles per hour.

Sayres expects his two champs—the V won the Gold Cup last year after IV took it in 1950—to be the first to qualify in the six-boat field.

Such Crust

On hand, too, will be Such Crust IV, a carbon copy of the Slo-Mos owned by Jack Schafer of Detroit. She is the first arrival among three Detroit craft making the long haul from the motor capital by truck. The others are the two-engined Miss Pepsi, owned by Roy and Walter Dossin, and Miss Great Lakes II, owned by Albin Fallon.

The Hurricane II is being brought up from Los Angeles by Morlan Visel to make her second try here in the American Classic of Speedboat Racing.

The boats will be given five days in which to qualify and there is small likelihood that any will fail. Miss Great Lakes II and Such Crust IV are the only two which were not in last year's 11-boat field but both are proven competitors.

World Record

Fickleness of the highly tuned engines could upset the hopes of any owner. Any owner. Last year only six craft last through the race, which was cut short in the third heat when the Quicksilver vanished in a cloud of spray, killing owner Orth Mathiot of Portland, Ore., and his mechanic, Tommy Whittaker. Engine failure knocked out Miss Pepsi after she had chased Slo-Mo-Shun V to a new lap record of 108 miles per hour.

Lou Fageol, driving the V, also set a heat record of 91.76 M. P. H. for 10 trips around the narrow oval. The Slo-Mo-IV, which Fageol will drive this year, set the race record at 78.21 for the three heats in 1950.

The IV also has shattered the world speed mark twice, first shocking the speedboat world in 1950 by traveling the straight-away mile in 160.3235 miles per hour. Only last month Sayres pushed the record up to 178.497 in the same craft.

Trout, Newhouser Face Each Other For First Time

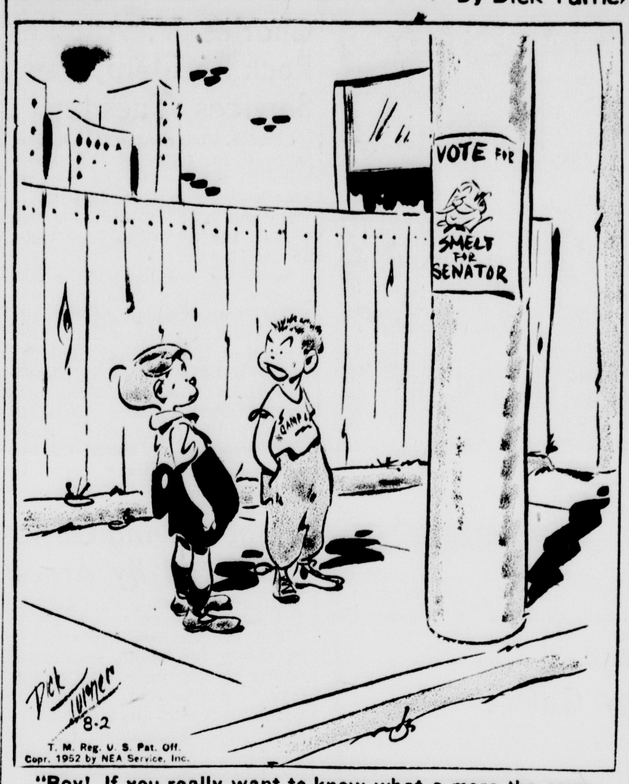

DETROIT—(AP)—Eight years ago lefthander Hal Newhouser and righthander Dizzy Trout almost grabbed the pennant for the Tigers by winning 56 games between them.

Today they were scheduld to pitch against each other for the first time. Trout has won 6 and lost 3 since he was traded to Boston June 5. Newhouser has a 4-6 record. Four of his defeats were by one run.

Art Houtteman (5-14) will hurl Sunday against the Red Sox.

Prices Of 1953 Cars Will Rise

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT — (AP)—New model passenger automobiles are going to cost more to produce and in all probability they will carry higher price tags.

To what extent price consciousness will affect retail sales in the coming model year is being widely discussed in automotive trade quarters. Of more immediate concern, however, is the volume of production that may be achieved on the initial 1953 model cars.

The burglar of price consciousness has been talked about in automotive quarters for more than a year and yet the merchandising division has sold just about all the cars it got from the factories. Earlier in the 1952 model season some industry experts said the market would not absorb more than four million new passenger cars this year.

Material Shortages

This prediction will not be tested out because the factories apparently will not build many more than that number this year. Prices figured somewhat in the prediction, but so, too, did the volume of cars produced and sold since the end of World War II.

Despite recurring shortages of material, labor disputes and the restrictions created by the defense program, the auto manufacturers built and sold more cars in the postwar period than they expected to.

Of a total current registration of somewhere around 42 million passenger cars considerably more than two-thirds are postwar models.

But it has to be noted that many of the cars built since the war already are being replaced; some even have gone to the junk pile. The industry's statistical agencies say annual scrappage now runs close to 3 3-4 million units.

Bigger Sales

Nevertheless there is no indication that, excepting temporarily due to shortages, the annual junking of obsolete cars will ever fall much below the current level. Only a relatively small additional number of sales are needed to give the entire industry a profitable year.

One sales authority recently asserted this year's indicated output would barely take care of replacement needs. The dealer organization, he said, had every reason to expect next year's sales to top those of 1952—unless tighter output restrictions are imposed by the government.

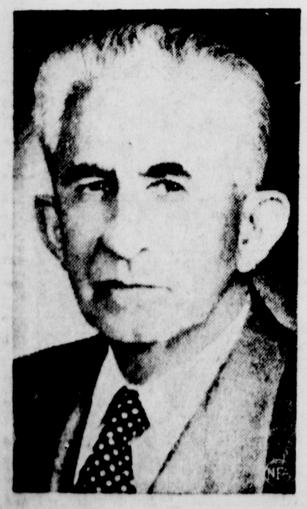

Of course, nobody ever heard a manufacturer's sales executive admit merchandising prospects were anything but good. Generally the sales chiefs have claimed there is an annual market for five million new cars for an indefinite period ahead.

They explain some genuine selling effort will be needed, but that the public will buy that many new cars if properly persuaded. Many persons outside the sales division who like to call themselves impartial observers dispute this view.

They say it takes something more than persuasion—something like the threat of a new car shortage—to step up demand now. They note that up to within a few weeks of the steel strike many new car dealers were complaining they had more cars than customers.

And, they add, an authoritative survey shows that approximately 25 per cent of the nation's car dealers operated at a loss during the first quarter of this year. Many of these dealers should be able to retrieve much of their earlier losses with the car shortage that lies ahead. They cannot arbitrarily increase delivered prices, but they aren't likely to make any exorbitant allowances on trade-ins.

Most plants which grow in meadow land are European imports. The clovers were brought here deliberately, but daisies, buttercups, thistles and others moved over by themselves.

Jams Contain Energy Galore

FOR THAT afternoon snack you will like bread, blackberry or cherry jam and a tall glass of ice-cold milk.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Market Editor

With blackberries and cherries splashing their color over our roadside stands and local markets, now is the time to make jams.

And remember—a slab of good bread, buttered, with homemade jam spread on it, plus a glass of milk makes a wonderful energy snack for active youngsters.

Blackberry and Cherry Jam
(Using sour cherries)
(Yield: about 11 medium glasses)

Four cups prepared fruit, 7½ cups sugar, ½ bottle liquid fruit pectin.

To prepare the fruit: crush thoroughly about 1 quart fully ripe blackberries. Stem and pit about 1½ pounds fully ripe sour cherries. Chop fine. Combine fruits and measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan.

To make the jam: Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon.

Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with ⅛-inch hot parraffin.

Hot Campaign On In Primary

(By The Associated Press)

Most Republican candidates centered their fire on Democrats as they headed down the stretch toward Tuesday's primary election, but some of them took pot shots at each other.

Auditor General John B. Martin, one of four seeking the GOP senatorial nomination, claimed in Detroit that "a smear campaign" had been opened there against him. He also attacked what he called "candidates of the money trusts."

"Letters appeared in the Detroit area," he said, "trying to hang the label of 'socialized medicine' on John B. Martin. I am not and never have been in favor of socialized medicine."

Alger Raps Prettyman

Secretary of State Fred M. Alger, Jr., a Republican hoping to oppose Democratic Governor G. Mennen Williams in November, criticized Dr. E. C. Prettyman, secretary of the Michigan Temperance Foundation, for his method of supporting Lieutenant-Governor William C. Vandenberg, one of Alger's two GOP opponents.

Alger accused Prettyman of inducing the Rev. Raymond L. Norton, pastor of the Mason Methodist Church, to block a scheduled church supper planned by Alger supporters and to circularize his congregation in behalf of Vandenberg.

"Mr. Prettyman puts in the mouth of the Rev. Mr. Norton an absolute falsehood," Alger charged in a statement issued in Lansing. "I refer to the charge that I made promises to the wets, and that I will work for their interests if elected.

High Taxes Criticized

"If Mr. Prettyman means I made a promise to fight against a movement intended to restore prohibition to Michigan, he is right," Alger continued. "I made that promise, but not to any special group. It was made to the people of Michigan, time and time again."

Auditor-General Martin injected into his campaign yesterday a proposal that membership in the Communist party be made legal grounds for loss of employment in union shops. He suggested this be accomplished through an amendment to the Taft-Hartley act.

Vandenberg took no notice of Alger's attack in an Ingham County speech aimed primarily at Democrats.

"Taxes, hidden and direct," Vandenberg said, "have become an overpowering burden, crippling purchasing power and denying opportunity to youth. x x x

"When the Democratic state administration now in power in Michigan says it wants new taxes but not the kind of taxes that would fall on the consumer, it is dealing in fakery. There is no tax that does not fall on the consuming public."

Higher Living Costs Predicted By Arnall

The report, Arnall told a reporter, shows the public can expect "rising prices, higher living costs, further depreciation of the dollar; and fewer airplanes, tanks, guns and equipment for the amount of money we are spending for national defense." He added:

"The constant increase in living costs, especially the steady rise in the cost of food, is a strong argument against those siren voices among the business community who have been telling Congress and the people that x x x the need for concern about the cost of living is over."

Aluminum Increase

The record food prices, Arnall said, still do not reflect effects of the decontrol of fruits and vegetables voted recently by Congress and the extensive drought which is damaging crops in the South and New England.

Meanwhile, government officials estimated that increased ceiling prices on aluminum scheduled to be ordered Monday will boost national defense costs by from 15 to 20 million dollars.

Arnall's previous estimate that the recent increase in steel prices will add $100 a year to the average living cost of the American family was challenged by Erest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corporation, the country's fifth largest steel producer.

Weir said in a statement at Pittsburgh that Arnall's estimate was "absolutely untrue." He said that if the industry operates at capacity during the next 12 months, the actual price increase on steel will be "only about $10 per family per year spread over automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators, tin cans and everything else made of steel that the family buys."

Attorney Convicted Of Punching Pearson

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Attorney Charles Patrick Clark was convicted in municipal court yesterday on a charge of assaulting columnist Drew Pearson in a two-punch fracus here June 18.

The jury reached its verdict in 36 minutes after a two-day trial in which Clark, whose clients include the Spanish government, pleaded self defense.

Sentencing was deferred until Tuesday. The maximum penalty for assault is a year in jail and $500 fine.

Pearson testified Clark, without warning, hit him in the neck as he was leaving the Mayflower hotel dining room. Other witnesses said another punch grazed Pearson's shoulder.

Daring Daylight Holdup In Chicago Gets $45,000 Loot

CHICAGO — (AP)—Four gunmen executed a daring three-minute daylight holdup of a bank in suburban Lyons yesterday and stole an estimated $45,000 in cash.

The robbers, two of whom wore masks, entered the bank of Lyons in late afternoon—just minutes before hundred of workers in a nearby industrial area were expected to cash their paychecks.

Three of the bandits herded 17 persons, including 12 employes, into a rear room while a fourth man went through the cages, scooping up all the currency into a paper sack. He did not enter the vault.

They fled in an auto driven by a fifth man.

Beatification Of Eva Peron Proposed

VATICAN CITY—(AP)—A Vatican source said today the congregation of rites has received no petition to start beatification proceedings for Eva Peron, late wife of Argentina's President Juan D. Peron.

In Buenos Aires, the Union of Food Industry workers said yesterday it had sent a cable to Pope Pius XII asking that proceedings be started for eventually raising Mrs. Peron to sainthood in the Roman Catholic church.

Argentine newspapers have chorused Mrs. Peron's saintliness daily since her death a week ago. Thousands continue to pay homage as she lies in state awaiting her funeral next Tuesday. There have been hints that a year after that her body may be placed in a monument under glass and permanently displayed to the public.

Fighting Campaign

General Eisenhower promised a fighting campaign starting about Sept. 1. Eisenhower said he and his running mate, Senator Richard M. Nixon of California, will go into "all the nooks and crannies in the United States."

The Republican candidate said he believes development of a sound program for world peace overrides all the issues of the presidential campaign. He made this reply when asked to comment on a statement by Gov. Stevenson that foreign policy is the principal issue.

Eisenhower and Nixon conferred with professional and amateur campaign strategists yesterday. Afterwards Nixon praised Eisenhower for having done "a beautiful job of assuring harmony" between the groups.

Arthur E. Summerfield, the new chairman of the Republican national committee, told reporters the conference dealt largely with plans for continuing the national citizens for Eisenhower committee.

Delegates Restless

Do you wonder the delegates were restless? That men took off their coats and looked sloppy? That people said and did things which were foolish?

The folks object that "Why, you could see the deals being made all over the floor—it was disgraceful."

But, of course, mes amis, there were deals being made. There are always deals being made—in politics, in business, in industry, in banking, in luncheon clubs, in ladies' aid societies. It's only the politicians at conventions who have to do it in front of a television camera.
